Herter Reports U.S. Fears New Panama Rioting

FILES COMPLAINT — Rives Mankers (above), acting U.S. district attorney general, filed a Justice Dept. suit in Memphis, Tenn., yesterday challenging the validity of what it called an all-white primary election held last Aug. 1 in Fayette County, Tenn. Concern Felt For Safety Of Americans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Monday the government has received threats of new anti-American violence in Panama. He said he was "increasingly concerned" for the safety of the U.S. colony of 300 persons.

The State Department said Herter discussed the reports with Panamanian Ambassador Ricardo M. Arias in a 40-minute confernce in the secretary's office.

Herter told Arias the United States was willing to send a top U.S. diplomat to Panama to solve "misunderstandings" that led to the window-breaking flag-ripping demonstrations Nov. 3-4.

Arias said he told Herter "it would be helpful if a high-ranking official of the department was sent to Panama. There was speculation that Robert Murphy, trouble shooting undersecretary of state for political affairs, or someone of comparable rank would be chosen.

Herter also reminded the ambassador that the government of Panama "continues to have the fundamental responsibility for maintaining public order in Panama." He asked Arias to tell his government about the U.S. government's concern over the new threats of anti-American violence.

The threats to which Herter referred have been made in Panamanian radio broadcasts and newspapers.

Officials said Communists have had a hand in instigating the anti-American feeling in Panama but that they probably were not the only group behind it.

After his meeting with Herter, Arias said he believed the Communists were trying to take advantage of the situation. But he said it would be hard to say whether they instigated the trouble "because they work very underhanded."

Nehru Rejects Chou's Summit Conference Bid

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru turned down Monday the proposal by Premier Chou En-lai of Red China for an early Himalayan summit meeting to settle their border dispute.

Nehru also rejected as impractical Chou's suggestion that both sides withdraw their border forces at once for a distance of 12½ miles from their present positions.

As anti-Chinese demonstrations broke out outside, Nehru told Parliament he has sent other proposals to Peiping "which seem to us practical." He declined to go into detail until Chou gets the note from New Delhi.

About 850 Kan Sangh (rightist) party demonstrators in front of Parliament waved signs saying "Nehru, shake off softness" and "Drive out the Chinese invaders."

Nehru told Parliament he has always been willing to talk with Chou but "if talks are to bear fruit as we want them to do" there must be adequate advance preparation.

In a note Nov. 7, Chou suggested both sides withdraw 12½ miles from their positions in two disputed areas—the northeast border with Tibet and the Ladakh plateau 1,000 miles to the west.

In northeast, this would be from a point near the MacMahon Line —drawn by the British in 1914 and considered by India its border with Tibet. China claims 32,000 square miles south of the line. Conceivably, a withdrawal here would pull all Red Chinese troops north of the MacMahon Line.

But in Ladakh, the Chinese control about 8,000 square miles of territory India considers its own and such a short withdrawal would leave Red Chinese in control of much of this territory.

Clues To Killer Of Four Sought

HOLCOMB, Kan., (UPI)—Investigators swarmed over a swank residence in this southeastern Kansas community Monday searching for clues to the killer of a wealthy wheat farmer and three members of his family.

Most neighbors and friends believed only a "maniacal killer" could be responsible for the vicious killings. The family was highly regarded in the community.

The killer entered the ranch-type residence late Saturday or Sunday morning and fired shotgun blasts into Herbert W. Clutter, 49, formerly an Eisenhower appointee to the Federal Farm Credit Board; his wife, Bonnie, 45, and two of their children, Nancy, 16, and Kenyon, 15.

A giant manhunt, one of the greatest in Kansas history, intensified as officers sought clues to the killer, who apparently awakened the Clutters, Bound and gagged them, and shot them. The victims, all struck in the head, were nearly decapitated.

Dogs' Effort In Vain

CHIAVARI, Italy (AP) — Bruno Bernero's two dogs split up relief duties when he slipped on a cliff and was wedged between snow-covered rocks on a weekend hunting expedition. One dog mounted guard at the spot. The other ran to Bernero's home and returned with a police patrol. But the rescuers arrived too late. Bernero, 37, had died of the cold.

High Court Will Decide Rights Act Suit Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Whether the federal government can sue a state in enforcing the 1957 Civil Rights Act will be decided by the Supreme Court.

The court agreed Monday to review decisions of two lower federal courts ruling out such suits based on charges of discrimination against Negroes who wished to register to vote.

This is the second major phase of the Civil Rights Act now before the court.

Last June it agreed to review a decision holding portions of the act unconstitutional.

The case the court agreed to review Monday arose in Alabama.

U.S. District Court Judge Frank M. Johnson of Montgomery ruled that neither on the act's face nor in its history was there any reasonable basis for holding that Congress intended to provide for suit against a sovereign state. The U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans upheld Johnson.

The section involved provides that whenever "any person" deprives or is about to deprive another of voting rights, the U.S. attorney general may institute civil action for an injunction.

Under this section, the Justice Department, on Feb. 5, 1959, filed suit to prevent the registrars of Macon County from barring Negroes from registering. The registrars resigned before the suit was actually filed and no successors were named.

Then the Justice Department amended its suit to make the State of Alabama a defendant, and as such subject to commands that it observe the federal law. The department contended the state was responsible for acts of its agents and duties of the registrars continued until successors were appointed.

Judge Johnson said in dismissing the suit that Congress had deliberately used the word "person" to bar states from being made defendants in injunction actions.

No Progress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Negotiators for the Steelworkers union and the industry met privately during the weekend but failed to make any progress toward resolving their contract dispute, informed sources said Monday.

Berry Tests Turn Up Only Limited Taint

Flemming Reports Encouraging Trend As Check Continues

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming Monday night announced seizure of 25 cases of canned cranberries grown in Wisconsin and shipped to Nashville, Tenn.

But Flemming added in a prepared statement:

"The great majority of the tests for the weed killer has shown no contamination. This is encouraging and a trend that I hope continues as the testing proceeds."

Flemming said that to date some 3½ million pounds of cranberries had been tested by Food and Drug Administration chemists. Of this total about 80,000 pounds were found contaminated by the weed killer aminotriazole, he said.

As of late Monday, he said, FDA laboratories had tested 337 lots of cranberries and cranberry products, with 324 lots shown to be free of contamination.

Only four lots were definitely contaminated, with the others being rechecked, he said.

Flemming said that of the lots cleared to date, 159 were shipped from Massachusetts, 53 from Wisconsin, 44 from New Jersey and 27 from Washington State.

He said the origin of the remaining 41 lots has not been determined.

The statement gave no further information about the seizure of berries shipped to Nashville.

Flemming said:

"I am extremely hopeful that representatives of the cranberry industry in their conference with us on Wednesday will be able to present a plan which will make it possible to segregate contaminated from uncontaminated berries on a larger scale than is now possible through laboratory testing of each lot."

Flemming's statement came after FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick had told newsmen tests so far indicate contamination of cranberries was very limited.

With Thanksgiving just ahead, federal chemists have been working under pressure to check out lots of the berries for possible taint.

In New York City, federal inspectors gave a clean bill to 188,000 pounds of fresh and canned cranberries. Included were batches from Long Island, New Jersey and Massachusetts.

None Found In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — After five days of cranberry testing here, federal chemists and inspectors have found no traces of cancer-producing weed killer.

But Richard C. Williams, chief of the Baltimore district of the Food and Drug Administration, warned:

"This is just the beginning. We expect to continue testing until Thanksgiving, at least."

Deaf Mute, 17, Wins In Livestock Show

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The crowd cheered, but 17-year-old James Linthicum couldn't hear them.

He is a deaf mute.

James knew he won the reserve championship in the Junior Class of the Eastern National Livestock Show here Monday when the judge pointed to his hereford.

Tuesday he will compete against 4-H Club winner Dennis Hinrichs, of Woodville, Ohio, and the champion and reserve champion of the adult class, for the top two spots in the Eastern National.

Manpower Slashes Likely Under Ike's New Defense Budget

Plans For Spending At Present Level

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower agreed tentatively Monday to a new 1962 military budget which proposes to trim manpower slightly while keeping defense spending at about the present 41-billion-dollar level.

Modern weapons apparently will get the nod over personnel.

Military manpower now is about 2½ million. How much and where it might be pared was not disclosed.

But Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, after his return to Washington from a high-level conference here, said the Air Force and the Navy are scheduled to take manpower cuts under the new budget. He added that the Navy's second nuclear - powered aircraft carrier failed to get approval.

At the same time, McElroy said the question of calling back some of the American troops now overseas is one that must be faced some time in the future rather than immediately.

For something like four hours the Augusta National Golf Club was the scene of a conference between Eisenhower, McElroy and other top bracket defense and financial authorities on what to do about the military budget for the 1961 fiscal year starting next July 1.

For 30 minutes of that time, McElroy and the President were alone in Eisenhower's office. For the remainder, 11 people, including Budget Director Maurice H. Stans, were gathered around a rectangular council table, in front of an open fire, in the club's trophy room.

Some parts of the military budget were pushed up, some down, McElroy said. Again without spelling out details, he told newsmen that "we're putting very sharp questions" against some research programs.

In that connection, another budget conference, now on tap for Tuesday, took on special significance. The White House announced that Dr. T. Keith Glennon, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency, will confer with Eisenhower Tuesday morning.

NASA has been put in charge of the Saturn Project to develop a rocketry system capable of getting a man into space. There have been reports that the project may be slowed down.

59 Pupils Hurt In Bus Mishap

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) —A crowded school bus flipped over in a six-foot ditch near Baker Monday, injuring 59 Catholic school children, none seriously.

The bus crashed against a hedge and barbed wire fence, after attempting a turn at an intersection, officers said.

The youngsters cried as they struggled out of the damaged vehicle, making their way through the shattered windshield and out the back door.

Irene Hirtzler, the driver, estimated the bus, with a maximum capacity of 54, was carrying 66 pupils. They were on their way to the St. Gerard Majella Catholic School in Baton Rouge. Mrs. Hirtzler said she sometimes carried up to 75 or 80.

First her brakes failed, she said, then the accelerator stuck, and she tried without success to shift gears.

"I told the children we were going faster," she related, "and I couldn't stop. I told them to start praying. I tried to make a turn on Plank Road. Thank goodness there was no traffic coming.

Cuba Arrests 200 In Anti-Castro Plot

HAVANA (UPI) — More than 200 anti-Castro conspirators were arrested in the past week in a vast roundup of counter-revolutionaries in various sections of Cuba, the government reported Monday.

Government officials said the conspirators, many of them followers of deposed dictator Fulgencio Batista, were members of a vast anti-government plot directed by Cuban exiles in Miami, Fla., to spread sabotage and terror throughout Cuba.

Hoffa Union CleanupGets Green Light

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters monitors said Monday they will move soon to lay the basis for ouster of James R. Hoffa as president of the scandal - ridden Teamsters Union.

Martin F. O'Donoghue, monitor board chairman, said his three-man cleanup group will press ahead harder than ever now that the Supreme Court has refused to interfere with monitor reform enforcement powers.

The court Monday refused to review lower court decisions giving the monitors sweeping reform authority.

Hoffa said in Miami Beach, Fla., "We are disappointed but we'll live up to the court's decision. However, we will examine each individual decision of the monitors, and those which are not constitutionally acceptable to us we'll take back to the court for further consideration."

Hoffa was in Miami Beach for a Teamsters southern conference meeting.

The monitors, appointed two years ago, have been handicapped all along, O'Donoghue said, with challenges of their legal powers by Hoffa and the Teamsters.

"Now we can move ahead much faster and get this cleanup job over with," O'Donoghue told reporters.

O'Donoghue and his two monitor colleagues are to meet Tuesday to chart their speeded - up course of processing charges against Hoffa and other Teamster officials and practices that were questioned by a special Senate committee.

Housing Starts Down Sharply During October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial output fell only slightly last month despite the steel strike but private housing starts were down sharply, the government reported Monday.

The Federal Reserve Board said production in mines and factories dropped about one half of 1 per cent. In a separate report, the Census Bureau said housing starts were down 13 per cent, mostly because of tight money.

Industrial production, adjusted to take seasonal factors into account, was 48 per cent above the 1947-49 average. In September it was 49 per cent higher than the average.

The board said the drop reflected the fact that metal-using industries had to rely on inventories to sustain production. In some cases inventories ran dry and output had to be curtailed.

Noting that the Steelworkers Union returned to their jobs Nov. 7 under an 80-day injunction, the board indicated it looks for no immediate recovery to the peak production level reached in June before the strike.

"Recovery and output in employment in related industries will be limited until steel supplies are available in volume," the board said.

Cloud Vapor Rocket Shot Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Government scientists Monday postponed for at least 24 hours the first of three artificial cloud vapor rocket shots which had been scheduled for dusk Monday night. Unfavorable weather was blamed.

The shots were arranged at Wallops Island, Va., by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) as part of International Rocket Week.

Shark-Filled Waters Yield Nine Bodies

All 42 Aboard Apparently Died In Gulf Plunge

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A four - engine National Airlines plane plummeted into the shark-infested waters of the Gulf of Mexico early Monday with 36 passengers and six crewmembers aboard.

Coast Guard rescue units picked up nine bodies and intensified the search for others, with little hope held for any survivors.

The big DC7B lost radio contact shortly after midnight as fog slipped in over the Gulf and all but closed operations at Moisant Airport, destination for the Miami originated flight.

One of the pilots of the two Coast Guard helicopters which guided search vessels to the scene said "There probably will be more bodies found, but it's getting difficult because of sharks."

The Coast Guard halted the search at nightfall, but left two vessels in the area. The crash site, the Coast Guard said, probably would be marked off to aid salvage operations, but it would be difficult because of the water's depth.

Sharks 12 To 15 Feet Long

One searching ship came across mail, clothing and a school of sharks.

Lt. James L. Sigman, executive officer of the Coast Guard air detachment at New Orleans, said he couldn't miss seeing the sharks as his helicopter swept low over the 300-foot deep waters.

"They were so big," Sigman said, estimating the sharks were 12 to 15-feet long.

Three Coast Guard vessels reported picking up the nine bodies amid the scattered debris. The bodies were to be taken to Gulfport, Miss., the Coast Guard said.

The plane left Tampa, Fla., at 11:02 p.m., and was due in New Orleans at 2:20 a.m. Its last contact with a radio point was at 12:33 a.m.

The plane went down about 100 miles southeast of New Orleans, about 25 miles from the marshy Louisiana coast near the mouth of the Mississippi River.

Sigman said it was his opinion that the plane blew up when it hit water. This, he said, was indicated by the clothing stripped off the bodies, severe burning of the bodies and peeling of the skin.

No Life Preservers On Bodies

He discounted any explosion in the air, pointing out the wreckage was spread over a comparatively small area of two to three miles.

A midair explosion, he said, would have tossed bits of wreckage over a 10-mile area.

The plane apparently had no forewarning, he said, and cited the lack of life preservers on any of the bodies.

"In fact," Sigman added, "I saw only one life preserver floating among the debris."

Aircraft Commander Capt. Frank E. Todd, 43, veteran National Airlines pilot, was among the crew members. The rest of the crew included First Officer Dick S. Beebee, Flight Engineer George H. Clarke, Stewardess Pat Hires and Donna Osburn, all of Miami.

Albert Fraser, 51, general manager of a Detroit auto parts firm, was among the passengers.

Typhoon Roars Toward Manila

MANILA (UPI)—Typhoon Freda smashed into the southern Philippines Monday night with winds of 120 miles an hour. Two vessels caught directly in the path of the typhoon were reported to have run aground in the boiling surf.

First reports reaching here from two southern provinces said at least one person was killed and 30 others were injured in accidents caused by the violent winds.

A U.S. Air Force four-engined plane and a civilian turbo-prop airliner were diverted from scheduled landings at Manila as the typhoon roared toward the capital area.

Hagerty In New Delhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty and his party planning President Eisenhower's forthcoming tour arrived here by plane Monday from Afghanistan. After two days here preparing for the presidential visit next month, the party will fly to Iran.

Pope Names Archbishops Of Chicago, Fargo, N.D., To College Of Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII Monday appointed two new American cardinals, bringing U.S. representation in that Roman Catholic body to six, highest ever.

Archbishops Albert Gregory Meyer of Chicago and Aloisius J. Muench of Fargo, N.D., are among eight cardinals-designate who will be elevated to the purple at a secret consistory Dec. 14 and receive their red hats at a public ceremony three days later.

The consistory, the second in Pope John's reign of little more than a year, will increase the College of Cardinals to 79 members, highest in history. Only two nations, Italy with 31 and France with 7, will have more than the United States among the princes of the Church.

For a brief time after a 1946 consistory called by the late Pope Pius XII, at which four new American cardinals were created, the United States had five cardinals. But John Cardinal Glennon, archbishop of St. Louis, died on his way home from the consistory.

The four present American cardinals are Francis Spellman of New York, James F. McIntyre of Los Angeles, Richard J. Cushing of Boston and John F. O'Hara of Philadelphia.

The other designated cardinals are William Tehdore Heard, 75, British dean of the Holy Roman Rota Tribunal; Agostino Bea, 78, German Jesuit confessor of the late Pope Pius XII; Arcadio Larraona, 72, Spanish secretary of the Congregational of the Religious; and three Italians—Gustava Testa, 73, apostolic nuncio to Switzerland, Paolo Marella, 64, the nuncio to France; and Francesco Morano, the 87-year-old secretary of the Ecclesiastical Tribunal.

Vatican sources said all eight of the new cardinals except Archbishop Meyer, 56, will become members of the Roman Curia, the central executive body at the Vatican, to strengthen the group in its preparations for the World Ecumenical Council, called by the pontiff to foster christian unity. It will be held in about three years.

Archbishop Muench, 70, who is apostolic nuncio to Germany as well as bishop of Fargo, will give up his German post to become the first American member of the Curia.

Vast Underwater Island Found In Arctic Ocean

NEW YORK (AP)—A huge underwater island has been charted 900 feet below the icy surface of the Arctic Ocean.

The area was discovered Aug. 2, 1958 by the nuclear submarine Nautilus on its pioneering cruise across the arctic.

Columbia University scientists in a report just completed, said they measured the submerged plateau and found the top of it to be 14,000 square miles in area. That is 635 times the size of Manhattan and larger than either Maryland or New Jersey.

The island is 500 miles north of the tip of Siberia.

The scientists made their study from a floating ice island, Alpha II, which drifted across the entire width of the submerged land mass.

"The ocean bottom suddenly leaped from 9,000 feet to 900 feet in little more than one day's time —or about 4½ miles of drift," said William J. Cromie, geophysicist.

Cromie and his three fellow scientists from Columbia's Lamont Geological Observatory found that the shallower waters of the island plateau provide an oasis of activity in the dreary Arctic.

There was little or no life on the ocean bottom—9,000 feet into the cold waters. But on the island plateau, several varieties of life were found and photographed—sponges a few inches thick, a cold-water shrimp, small fish and sea anemone.

High Court Will Decide Rights Act Suit Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Whether the federal government can sue a state in enforcing the 1957 Civil Rights Act will be decided by the Supreme Court.

The court agreed Monday to review decisions of two lower federal courts ruling out such suits based on charges of discrimination against Negroes who wished to register to vote.

This is the second major phase of the Civil Rights Act now before the court.

Last June it agreed to review a decision holding portions of the act unconstitutional.

The case the court agreed to review Monday arose in Alabama.

U.S. District Court Judge Frank M. Johnson of Montgomery ruled that neither on the act's face nor in its history was there any reasonable basis for holding that Congress intended to provide for suit against a sovereign state. The U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans upheld Johnson.

The section involved provides that whenever "any person" deprives or is about to deprive another of voting rights, the U.S. attorney general may institute civil action for an injunction.

Under this section, the Justice Department, on Feb. 5, 1959, filed suit to prevent the registrars of Macon County from barring Negroes from registering. The registrars resigned before the suit was actually filed and no successors were named.

Then the Justice Department amended its suit to make the State of Alabama a defendant, and as such subject to commands that it observe the federal law. The department contended the state was responsible for acts of its agents and duties of the registrars continued until successors were appointed.

Judge Johnson said in dismissing the suit that Congress had deliberately used the word "person" to bar states from being made defendants in injunction actions.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Negotiators for the Steelworkers union and the industry met privately during the weekend but failed to make any progress toward resolving their contract dispute, informed sources said Monday.

Manpower Slashes Likely Under Ike's New Defense Budget

Plans For Spending At Present Level

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower agreed tentatively Monday to a new 1962 military budget which proposes to trim manpower slightly while keeping defense spending at about the present 41-billion-dollar level.

Modern weapons apparently will get the nod over personnel.

Military manpower now is about 2½ million. How much and where it might be pared was not disclosed.

But Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, after his return to Washington from a high-level conference here, said the Air Force and the Navy are scheduled to take manpower cuts under the new budget. He added that the Navy's second nuclear - powered aircraft carrier failed to get approval.

At the same time, McElroy said the question of calling back some of the American troops now overseas is one that must be faced some time in the future rather than immediately.

For something like four hours the Augusta National Golf Club was the scene of a conference between Eisenhower, McElroy and other top bracket defense and financial authorities on what to do about the military budget for the 1961 fiscal year starting next July 1.

For 30 minutes of that time, McElroy and the President were alone in Eisenhower's office. For the remainder, 11 people, including Budget Director Maurice H. Stans, were gathered around a rectangular council table, in front of an open fire, in the club's trophy room.

Some parts of the military budget were pushed up, some down, McElroy said. Again without spelling out details, he told newsmen that "we're putting very sharp questions" against some research programs.

In that connection, another budget conference, now on tap for Tuesday, took on special significance. The White House announced that Dr. T. Keith Glennon, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency, will confer with Eisenhower Tuesday morning.

NASA has been put in charge of the Saturn Project to develop a rocketry system capable of getting a man into space. There have been reports that the project may be slowed down.

Housing Starts Down Sharply During October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial output fell only slightly last month despite the steel strike but private housing starts were down sharply, the government reported Monday.

The Federal Reserve Board said production in mines and factories dropped about one half of 1 per cent. In a separate report, the Census Bureau said housing starts were down 13 per cent, mostly because of tight money.

Industrial production, adjusted to take seasonal factors into account, was 48 per cent above the 1947-49 average. In September it was 49 per cent higher than the average.

The board said the drop reflected the fact that metal-using industries had to rely on inventories to sustain production. In some cases inventories ran dry and output had to be curtailed.

Noting that the Steelworkers Union returned to their jobs Nov. 7 under an 80-day injunction, the board indicated it looks for no immediate recovery to the peak production level reached in June before the strike.

"Recovery and output in employment in related industries will be limited until steel supplies are available in volume," the board said.

Nehru Rejects Chou's Summit Conference Bid

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru turned down Monday the proposal by Premier Chou En-lai of Red China for an early Himalayan summit meeting to settle their border dispute.

Nehru also rejected as impractical Chou's suggestion that both sides withdraw their border forces at once for a distance of 12½ miles from their present positions.

As anti-Chinese demonstrations broke out outside, Nehru told Parliament he has sent other proposals to Peiping "which seem to us practical." He declined to go into detail until Chou gets the note from New Delhi.

About 850 Kan Sangh (rightist) party demonstrators in front of Parliament waved signs saying "Nehru, shake off softness" and "Drive out the Chinese invaders."

Nehru told Parliament he has always been willing to talk with Chou but "if talks are to bear fruit as we want them to do" there must be adequate advance preparation.

In a note Nov. 7, Chou suggested both sides withdraw 12½ miles from their positions in two disputed areas—the northeast border with Tibet and the Ladakh plateau 1,000 miles to the west.

In northeast, this would be from a point near the MacMahon Line —drawn by the British in 1914 and considered by India its border with Tibet. China claims 32,000 square miles south of the line. Conceivably, a withdrawal here would pull all Red Chinese troops north of the MacMahon Line.

But in Ladakh, the Chinese control about 8,000 square miles of territory India considers its own and such a short withdrawal would leave Red Chinese in control of much of this territory.

Clues To Killer Of Four Sought

HOLCOMB, Kan., (UPI)—Investigators swarmed over a swank residence in this southeastern Kansas community Monday searching for clues to the killer of a wealthy wheat farmer and three members of his family.

Most neighbors and friends believed only a "maniacal killer" could be responsible for the vicious killings. The family was highly regarded in the community.

The killer entered the ranch-type residence late Saturday or Sunday morning and fired shotgun blasts into Herbert W. Clutter, 49, formerly an Eisenhower appointee to the Federal Farm Credit Board; his wife, Bonnie, 45, and two of their children, Nancy, 16, and Kenyon, 15.

A giant manhunt, one of the greatest in Kansas history, intensified as officers sought clues to the killer, who apparently awakened the Clutters, Bound and gagged them, and shot them. The victims, all struck in the head, were nearly decapitated.

Dogs' Effort In Vain

CHIAVARI, Italy (AP) — Bruno Bernero's two dogs split up relief duties when he slipped on a cliff and was wedged between snow-covered rocks on a weekend hunting expedition. One dog mounted guard at the spot. The other ran to Bernero's home and returned with a police patrol. But the rescuers arrived too late. Bernero, 37, had died of the cold.

Deaf Mute, 17, Wins In Livestock Show

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The crowd cheered, but 17-year-old James Linthicum couldn't hear them.

He is a deaf mute.

James knew he won the reserve championship in the Junior Class of the Eastern National Livestock Show here Monday when the judge pointed to his hereford.

Tuesday he will compete against 4-H Club winner Dennis Hinrichs, of Woodville, Ohio, and the champion and reserve champion of the adult class, for the top two spots in the Eastern National.

59 Pupils Hurt In Bus Mishap

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) —A crowded school bus flipped over in a six-foot ditch near Baker Monday, injuring 59 Catholic school children, none seriously.

The bus crashed against a hedge and barbed wire fence, after attempting a turn at an intersection, officers said.

The youngsters cried as they struggled out of the damaged vehicle, making their way through the shattered windshield and out the back door.

Irene Hirtzler, the driver, estimated the bus, with a maximum capacity of 54, was carrying 66 pupils. They were on their way to the St. Gerard Majella Catholic School in Baton Rouge. Mrs. Hirtzler said she sometimes carried up to 75 or 80.

First her brakes failed, she said, then the accelerator stuck, and she tried without success to shift gears.

"I told the children we were going faster," she related, "and I couldn't stop. I told them to start praying. I tried to make a turn on Plank Road. Thank goodness there was no traffic coming.

Cloud Vapor Rocket Shot Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Government scientists Monday postponed for at least 24 hours the first of three artificial cloud vapor rocket shots which had been scheduled for dusk Monday night. Unfavorable weather was blamed.

The shots were arranged at Wallops Island, Va., by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) as part of International Rocket Week.

Typhoon Roars Toward Manila

MANILA (UPI)—Typhoon Freda smashed into the southern Philippines Monday night with winds of 120 miles an hour. Two vessels caught directly in the path of the typhoon were reported to have run aground in the boiling surf.

First reports reaching here from two southern provinces said at least one person was killed and 30 others were injured in accidents caused by the violent winds.

A U.S. Air Force four-engined plane and a civilian turbo-prop airliner were diverted from scheduled landings at Manila as the typhoon roared toward the capital area.

Hagerty In New Delhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty and his party planning President Eisenhower's forthcoming tour arrived here by plane Monday from Afghanistan. After two days here preparing for the presidential visit next month, the party will fly to Iran.

Pope Names Archbishops Of Chicago, Fargo, N.D., To College Of Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII Monday appointed two new American cardinals, bringing U.S. representation in that Roman Catholic body to six, highest ever.

Archbishops Albert Gregory Meyer of Chicago and Aloisius J. Muench of Fargo, N.D., are among eight cardinals-designate who will be elevated to the purple at a secret consistory Dec. 14 and receive their red hats at a public ceremony three days later.

The consistory, the second in Pope John's reign of little more than a year, will increase the College of Cardinals to 79 members, highest in history. Only two nations, Italy with 31 and France with 7, will have more than the United States among the princes of the Church.

For a brief time after a 1946 consistory called by the late Pope Pius XII, at which four new American cardinals were created, the United States had five cardinals. But John Cardinal Glennon, archbishop of St. Louis, died on his way home from the consistory.

The four present American cardinals are Francis Spellman of New York, James F. McIntyre of Los Angeles, Richard J. Cushing of Boston and John F. O'Hara of Philadelphia.

The other designated cardinals are William Tehdore Heard, 75, British dean of the Holy Roman Rota Tribunal; Agostino Bea, 78, German Jesuit confessor of the late Pope Pius XII; Arcadio Larraona, 72, Spanish secretary of the Congregational of the Religious; and three Italians—Gustava Testa, 73, apostolic nuncio to Switzerland, Paolo Marella, 64, the nuncio to France; and Francesco Morano, the 87-year-old secretary of the Ecclesiastical Tribunal.

Vatican sources said all eight of the new cardinals except Archbishop Meyer, 56, will become members of the Roman Curia, the central executive body at the Vatican, to strengthen the group in its preparations for the World Ecumenical Council, called by the pontiff to foster christian unity. It will be held in about three years.

Archbishop Muench, 70, who is apostolic nuncio to Germany as well as bishop of Fargo, will give up his German post to become the first American member of the Curia.

Cuba Arrests 200 In Anti-Castro Plot

HAVANA (UPI) — More than 200 anti-Castro conspirators were arrested in the past week in a vast roundup of counter-revolutionaries in various sections of Cuba, the government reported Monday.

Government officials said the conspirators, many of them followers of deposed dictator Fulgencio Batista, were members of a vast anti-government plot directed by Cuban exiles in Miami, Fla., to spread sabotage and terror throughout Cuba.

Vast Underwater Island Found In Arctic Ocean

NEW YORK (AP)—A huge underwater island has been charted 900 feet below the icy surface of the Arctic Ocean.

The area was discovered Aug. 2, 1958 by the nuclear submarine Nautilus on its pioneering cruise across the arctic.

Columbia University scientists in a report just completed, said they measured the submerged plateau and found the top of it to be 14,000 square miles in area. That is 635 times the size of Manhattan and larger than either Maryland or New Jersey.

The island is 500 miles north of the tip of Siberia.

The scientists made their study from a floating ice island, Alpha II, which drifted across the entire width of the submerged land mass.

"The ocean bottom suddenly leaped from 9,000 feet to 900 feet in little more than one day's time —or about 4½ miles of drift," said William J. Cromie, geophysicist.

Cromie and his three fellow scientists from Columbia's Lamont Geological Observatory found that the shallower waters of the island plateau provide an oasis of activity in the dreary Arctic.

There was little or no life on the ocean bottom—9,000 feet into the cold waters. But on the island plateau, several varieties of life were found and photographed—sponges a few inches thick, a cold-water shrimp, small fish and sea anemone.

Maryland, Virginia Gain Year's Delay For Final Settlement Of Potomac Suit

Request Based On Referendum Granted By Reed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maryland and Virginia gained another year Monday for final settlement of a suit involving Potomac River fishing and oystering rights.

The year's delay was granted by retired Supreme Court Justice Stanley F. Reed at the request of the two states.

The request was based on the fact that a referendum has been ordered in Maryland in November 1960 on adoption of a new compact between the states.

Both the Maryland and Virginia legislatures have approved a new compact as a basis for joint regulations of fishing and oystering in the Maryland-owned Potomac.

However, a group of Maryland citizens successfully petitioned for a vote on the 1958 compact to replace the historic 1785 agreement between the states which gave equal fishing rights on the river.

Virginia filed a suit with the Supreme Court in September 1957, after the Maryland Legislature had voted to nullify the old compact.

Maryland contended Virginia had not cooperated fully in conservation regulations during years of intermittent oyster wars.

Virginia in its suit argued that Maryland could not act alone to pull out of the compact.

Reed was named a special master in the case in efforts to seek an out of court settlement. Later, the 1958 compact was formulated by a two-state commission and ratified by the two legislatures.

In a report filed Monday with Reed, Attys. Gen. A. S. Harrison Jr. of Virginia and C. Ferdinand Sybert of Maryland noted that the governors of their states recently agreed at a conference here to ask for the delay.

Govs. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. of Virginia and J. Millard Tawes of Maryland also announced after their conference earlier this month that the Tawes administration would seek Maryland voter approval of the new compact in the voting next November.

Executive Kills Himself Rather Than Go To Jail

COLUMBUS, Ohio, (UPI) — A corporation executive, en route to begin a jail term for price rigging which would keep him in prison during the coming holidays, shot and killed himself Monday.

John T. Mains, 56, tall and greying vice president of the Union Fork and Hoe Co. here, sped into a driveway and shot himself in the head while his wife and son, following in another car, watched. He used a snub-nose revolver which had never been fired before.

Three other executives convicted in the hand tool price conspiracy surrendered. They had lunch in the marshal's office where they stayed for three hours to dodge newsmen, and then were whisked across the street to city prison.

The four men sentenced to prison were Mains, F. Bliss Winn, vice president of the Ames division of the Mc Donough Corp. Parkersburg, W.Va., and William Rector and Robert Raymond, president and vice president of the True Temper Corp. in Cleveland.

The four executives waited nervously all morning for U.S. District Judge Mell G. Underwood to decide if he would set aside their earlier trial and permit them to change their plea to innocent.

Spokesmen for the convicted men claimed in a hearing Friday that the government double-crossed them by imposing a jail sentence, instead of imposing only a fine. Defense attorneys said the four were among the few men ever sentenced to prison for price rigging.

Young Hunter, 14, Accidentally Shot, Killed By Pal, 15

SCARBORO, Md. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy was fatally shot in a field near here Monday afternoon when a hunting companion accidentally discharged his 20-gauge shotgun while checking the safety.

The victim was Carroll Franklin Cullim, who was rabbit hunting with James B. Acker, 14, and Donald Heck, 15. All three are from Scarboro. They were in a hay field belonging to Donald Stubb, a Harford County farmer, 1½ miles west of Scarboro and one mile north of Maryland 440.

State Police said Acker and Cullum sat down to rest, but Heck remained standing about seven feet away.

As he turned to face them, Heck checked the safety on his weapon. The left barrell discharged, and Cullum was struck in his right eye.

Dr. Harold C. Palmer, Harford County medical examiner, ruled the shooting accidental.

FCC To Begin TV Probe December 7

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) changed signals Monday and announced it will launch an investigation of television quiz show scandals in early December.

The commission said it will hold about 70 public hearings, beginning in Washington Dec. 7, to examine abuses brought to light by congressional investigators and network practices in general.

Chairman John C. Doerfer had announced earlier that the hearings probably would not begin until after the first of the year.

The study will focus on fixed quiz shows and payments to disc jockeys for plugging records, along with "offensive commercials and other broadcast practices contrary to the public interest."

Delaware Woman Reported Missing

LAUREL, Del. (AP)—The husband of a 34-year-old woman missing from her home here since Friday has asked Maryland and Delaware police to help find her.

Charles E. Hearn told police his wife, Mrs. Dolly Hearn, disappeared during a visit from the Delaware State Hospital, where she has been a patient. The couple has two children.

Hearn, an employe of the Wayne-Symington Corp. in Salisbury, Md., said his wife is 5-foot-6, 110 pounds, fair complexioned and auburn haired.

Federal Suit Charges Negro Voters Barred

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—The Justice Department filed suit in federal court Monday asking an order to stop the practice of holding "for whites only" Democratic primaries in Fayette County, Tenn.

The complaint, filed by U.S. Dist. Atty. Rives Manker, included a letter from the Fayette County Election Commission to poll officials reading:

"Only white Democrats are authorized to vote in this primary. If any Negroes should ask to vote in your district, they are to be informed that this is a white Democratic primary and not a general election."

Manker said a notice of the election was carried in Fayette County's weekly newspaper, published at Somerville, Tenn., and it said "this is a white Democratic primary."

The court action was requested by about a dozen Negroes who claimed they were turned away from the polls in the county primary Aug. 1.

The Negroes, all Democrats, claimed they were, in effect, being denied a voice in selection of county officials "because victory in such a local primary election is tantamount to election in the general election."

"This has gone on up there for many years," Manker told reporters. "It was all out in the open. They were not trying to hide anything."

Manker said Preston Parks, Democratic Executive Committee chairman and a lawyer, "cooperated with us fully and answered all our questions."

"What they did in Fayette County seems to be the custom of long standing," Manker said.

The primary selected candidates for sheriff, county trustee and general sessions judge to run in the general election next year. Manker stressed that no statewide offices were involved.

Blast-Damaged School Will Be Rededicated

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—The rededication of the Osage junior high school near here will be held Tuesday.

The school, badly damaged by a dynamite blast a year ago, has been partially rebuilt.

Principal speakers at the rededication ceremonies will be Washington Columnist Drew Pearson, Monongalia County School Supt. Charles Stevenson and James Twigg, Osage junior high school principal.

The bombing of the 17-room school has never been solved although as many as 20 FBI agents, plus local, county and State police conducted an intensive investigation.

The school had been fully integrated since 1954 and Mayor Stanley Solomon said after the blast, "we have lived in harmony all these years and there's no reason to believe integration problems should be arising now."

Now, a year later, the residents of Osage are preparing to send their children back to the school.

Tuerk Named Acting Mental Hygiene Chief

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has named Dr. Isadore Tuerk, superintendent of Spring Grove State Hospital, as acting commissioner of mental hygiene for the state.

Tawes said Monday that Tuerk will assume the duties Dec. 1 and serve until a permanent successor to Dr. Clifton T. Perkins is found.

Dr. Perkins died last week after nine years as head of the state mental hygiene program.

Tuerk is to continue his duties as head of Spring Grove while filling the commissioner's job on an acting basis. Dr. Rudolph J. Depner, assistant commissioner, is presently running the department.

Total expenditure for advertising in the U.S. last year passed $10,000,000,000. Approximately one-third of this amount—$3,192,800,000—was placed in daily newspapers.

Tawes Urged Not To Cut Mental Hygiene Budget

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes was told Monday that the Department of Mental Hygiene submitted a conservative budget request. He was urged not to cut it.

Four representatives of the Maryland Assn. for Mental Health Inc. conferred with the governor for more than an hour and presented him with a petition "for better treatment and care of mentally ill in Maryland." It was signed by some 10,000 citizens.

"The governor was non-committal—he has to be," Alfred P. Quimby, president of the association, said after the conference.

Quimby added, however, that he was convinced the governor is aware of the state's mental health needs.

The association is an organization of private citizens interested in promoting mental health.

Lawrence W. Shaw, the association's legislative chairman, said the department submitted "a very conservative budget (request) which should have been higher."

Quimby pointed out that the 23 million dollars requested for 1961 is the same amount sought by the department for this year. It received some 19 million.

The department, he said, made the same request "despite increased costs and additional operating units."

Quimby said the association believes the department's budget should be increased by at least 10 per cent and certainly that it should not be cut.

Ray Returns Without General's Daughter

LONDON (AP) — Hollywood tough guy Aldo Ray lost a decision to a British general Monday night and flew back to America without the general's daughter.

Ray, 33, bade a tearful goodby to 20-year-old Johanna Bennett as he boarded a plane en route to San Francisco.

Johanna's father, Maj. Gen. Roland Bennett, refused to let Johanna go with the twice-divorced actor.

Cold Wave Pushes East Into Great Lakes Region

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Searing cold, as low as 45 degrees below zero in western Montana, hung over the Rocky Mountain area under fair skies Monday following a weekend of snow.

The blasts of arctic air spread into the western Great Lakes region, through most of Iowa and into Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas Panhandle.

About 30 hunters were stranded by deep snow at a ranger station near Augusta, Mont., west of Great Falls. A ranger said the men had shelter and food.

A highway bulldozer struggled through three to four feet of snow in an effort to reach them.

The cold wave closed in quickly on a vast area east of the Rockies. Denver's temperature dropped from a springlike 63 Sunday afternoon to 1 above zero this morning.

A November record of 39 below zero was set at Helena, where more than two feet of snow fell during last week's blizzard.

The new storm left anywhere from 6 to 16 inches of fresh snow in Montana Sunday.

Most of Montana's schools stayed closed. Traffic in the Plains areas was paralyzed as biting winds whirled snow into drifts. However, main highways were kept open.

Near Glendive, in eastern Montana, an ice jam diverted waters of the Yellowstone River into lands.

At Townsend, officials kept an eye on slowly rising waters in the Missouri River. About 20 residents left their homes Saturday night.

Maryland, Virginia Gain Year's Delay For Final Settlement Of Potomac Suit

The Negroes, all Democrats, claimed they were, in effect, being denied a voice in selection of county officials "because victory in such a local primary election is tantamount to election in the general election."

"This has gone on up there for many years," Manker told reporters. "It was all out in the open. They were not trying to hide anything."

Manker said Preston Parks, Democratic Executive Committee chairman and a lawyer, "cooperated with us fully and answered all our questions."

"What they did in Fayette County seems to be the custom of long standing," Manker said.

The primary selected candidates for sheriff, county trustee and general sessions judge to run in the general election next year. Manker stressed that no statewide offices were involved.

Cold Wave Pushes East Into Great Lakes Region

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Searing cold, as low as 45 degrees below zero in western Montana, hung over the Rocky Mountain area under fair skies Monday following a weekend of snow.

The blasts of arctic air spread into the western Great Lakes region, through most of Iowa and into Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas Panhandle.

About 30 hunters were stranded by deep snow at a ranger station near Augusta, Mont., west of Great Falls. A ranger said the men had shelter and food.

A highway bulldozer struggled through three to four feet of snow in an effort to reach them.

The cold wave closed in quickly on a vast area east of the Rockies. Denver's temperature dropped from a springlike 63 Sunday afternoon to 1 above zero this morning.

A November record of 39 below zero was set at Helena, where more than two feet of snow fell during last week's blizzard.

The new storm left anywhere from 6 to 16 inches of fresh snow in Montana Sunday.

Most of Montana's schools stayed closed. Traffic in the Plains areas was paralyzed as biting winds whirled snow into drifts. However, main highways were kept open.

Near Glendive, in eastern Montana, an ice jam diverted waters of the Yellowstone River into lands.

At Townsend, officials kept an eye on slowly rising waters in the Missouri River. About 20 residents left their homes Saturday night.

Executive Kills Himself Rather Than Go To Jail

COLUMBUS, Ohio, (UPI) — A corporation executive, en route to begin a jail term for price rigging which would keep him in prison during the coming holidays, shot and killed himself Monday.

John T. Mains, 56, tall and greying vice president of the Union Fork and Hoe Co. here, sped into a driveway and shot himself in the head while his wife and son, following in another car, watched. He used a snub-nose revolver which had never been fired before.

Three other executives convicted in the hand tool price conspiracy surrendered. They had lunch in the marshal's office where they stayed for three hours to dodge newsmen, and then were whisked across the street to city prison.

The four men sentenced to prison were Mains, F. Bliss Winn, vice president of the Ames division of the Mc Donough Corp. Parkersburg, W.Va., and William Rector and Robert Raymond, president and vice president of the True Temper Corp. in Cleveland.

The four executives waited nervously all morning for U.S. District Judge Mell G. Underwood to decide if he would set aside their earlier trial and permit them to change their plea to innocent.

Spokesmen for the convicted men claimed in a hearing Friday that the government double-crossed them by imposing a jail sentence, instead of imposing only a fine. Defense attorneys said the four were among the few men ever sentenced to prison for price rigging.

Young Hunter, 14, Accidentally Shot, Killed By Pal, 15

SCARBORO, Md. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy was fatally shot in a field near here Monday afternoon when a hunting companion accidentally discharged his 20-gauge shotgun while checking the safety.

The victim was Carroll Franklin Cullim, who was rabbit hunting with James B. Acker, 14, and Donald Heck, 15. All three are from Scarboro. They were in a hay field belonging to Donald Stubb, a Harford County farmer, 1½ miles west of Scarboro and one mile north of Maryland 440.

State Police said Acker and Cullum sat down to rest, but Heck remained standing about seven feet away.

As he turned to face them, Heck checked the safety on his weapon. The left barrell discharged, and Cullum was struck in his right eye.

Dr. Harold C. Palmer, Harford County medical examiner, ruled the shooting accidental.

FCC To Begin TV Probe December 7

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) changed signals Monday and announced it will launch an investigation of television quiz show scandals in early December.

The commission said it will hold about 70 public hearings, beginning in Washington Dec. 7, to examine abuses brought to light by congressional investigators and network practices in general.

Chairman John C. Doerfer had announced earlier that the hearings probably would not begin until after the first of the year.

The study will focus on fixed quiz shows and payments to disc jockeys for plugging records, along with "offensive commercials and other broadcast practices contrary to the public interest."

Blast-Damaged School Will Be Rededicated

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—The rededication of the Osage junior high school near here will be held Tuesday.

The school, badly damaged by a dynamite blast a year ago, has been partially rebuilt.

Principal speakers at the rededication ceremonies will be Washington Columnist Drew Pearson, Monongalia County School Supt. Charles Stevenson and James Twigg, Osage junior high school principal.

The bombing of the 17-room school has never been solved although as many as 20 FBI agents, plus local, county and State police conducted an intensive investigation.

The school had been fully integrated since 1954 and Mayor Stanley Solomon said after the blast, "we have lived in harmony all these years and there's no reason to believe integration problems should be arising now."

Now, a year later, the residents of Osage are preparing to send their children back to the school.

Tuerk Named Acting Mental Hygiene Chief

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has named Dr. Isadore Tuerk, superintendent of Spring Grove State Hospital, as acting commissioner of mental hygiene for the state.

Tawes said Monday that Tuerk will assume the duties Dec. 1 and serve until a permanent successor to Dr. Clifton T. Perkins is found.

Dr. Perkins died last week after nine years as head of the state mental hygiene program.

Tuerk is to continue his duties as head of Spring Grove while filling the commissioner's job on an acting basis. Dr. Rudolph J. Depner, assistant commissioner, is presently running the department.

Delaware Woman Reported Missing

LAUREL, Del. (AP)—The husband of a 34-year-old woman missing from her home here since Friday has asked Maryland and Delaware police to help find her.

Charles E. Hearn told police his wife, Mrs. Dolly Hearn, disappeared during a visit from the Delaware State Hospital, where she has been a patient. The couple has two children.

Hearn, an employe of the Wayne-Symington Corp. in Salisbury, Md., said his wife is 5-foot-6, 110 pounds, fair complexioned and auburn haired.

All advertisers invested $3,192,800,000 in U.S. daily newspapers in 1958 — more than they did in radio, television, magazines and outdoor combined.

Total expenditure for advertising in the U.S. last year passed $10,000,000,000. Approximately one-third of this amount—$3,192,800,000—was placed in daily newspapers.

Tawes Urged Not To Cut Mental Hygiene Budget

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes was told Monday that the Department of Mental Hygiene submitted a conservative budget request. He was urged not to cut it.

Four representatives of the Maryland Assn. for Mental Health Inc. conferred with the governor for more than an hour and presented him with a petition "for better treatment and care of mentally ill in Maryland." It was signed by some 10,000 citizens.

"The governor was non-committal—he has to be," Alfred P. Quimby, president of the association, said after the conference.

Quimby added, however, that he was convinced the governor is aware of the state's mental health needs.

The association is an organization of private citizens interested in promoting mental health.

Lawrence W. Shaw, the association's legislative chairman, said the department submitted "a very conservative budget (request) which should have been higher."

Quimby pointed out that the 23 million dollars requested for 1961 is the same amount sought by the department for this year. It received some 19 million.

The department, he said, made the same request "despite increased costs and additional operating units."

Quimby said the association believes the department's budget should be increased by at least 10 per cent and certainly that it should not be cut.

Ray Returns Without General's Daughter

LONDON (AP) — Hollywood tough guy Aldo Ray lost a decision to a British general Monday night and flew back to America without the general's daughter.

Ray, 33, bade a tearful goodby to 20-year-old Johanna Bennett as he boarded a plane en route to San Francisco.

Johanna's father, Maj. Gen. Roland Bennett, refused to let Johanna go with the twice-divorced actor.

Service Station Owner Routs Bandits In Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A service station owner shot it out with two holdup men Sunday night and barely escaped death when a bullet glanced off the metal rim of his eyeglasses.

"I am very grateful to be alive today," said owner Hall Thornton Martin, 57, after doctors dug a slug out of one of his cheeks.

Martin said he was seated at the desk in his station on Indian Head Highway on the southeast edge of Washington about 11:10 p.m. last night when two "rough looking characters" walked in.

The service station owner said he reached for his .32 caliber automatic and slipped it into his pocket as the two men approached his desk, one behind the other. The one in the rear, Martin said, suddenly thrust a pistol over the other's shoulder and said "This is a holdup."

"I reached for my gun and he shot me," Martin said. "And then I shot. I came up shooting — I don't know how many times.

"One of them slumped over — I had either hit him or scared hell out of him. Then they ran outside, and I went after them, still shooting. One of them fell down outside but got up again."

The holdup men jumped into a car and were driven away by a third man, said Sgt. Charles H. Nalley of the Prince Georges County police.

Martin said he didn't realize he'd been hit until he saw blood. A bullet, fired from about six feet away, had struck his eyeglass rim, knocked a lens loose, then lodged in his cheek.

William Roger Proctor, 24, Oxon Hill, Md., and Herbert Nicholas Carle, 22, Washington, were charged with armed robbery. Nalley said a bullet fired by Martin struck Proctor in the back and travelled upward into his head. Proctor was reported in critical condition.

Nalley said the third man drove Proctor and Carle to Casualty Hospital, Washington, and left them there. Police were summoned when the hospital reported Proctor's wound.

Personal Income Up In Md., Down In W.Va

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia were among states showing increases in personal income during 1958, but West Virginia failed to equal its 1957 level, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

Gains in personal income of Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia residents was roughly twice the 2 per cent increase registered by all of the United States, the bank said.

Income per person in 1958 averaged $2,634 in the District of Columbia, $2,221 in Maryland, $1,674 in Virginia and $1,509 in West Virginia. The national average last year was $2,057, the bank said.

The 1958 average set new records in Maryland, Virginia and the District. West Virginia's 1958 average was $66 below that of 1957.

B&O Comeback Since '58 Offset By Steel Strike

BALTIMORE (AP) — This year "has not been too favorable," for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, stockholders were told at their annual meeting Monday by Howard E. Simpson, president.

Simpson, who was re-elected along with all other top officers and board members, said the steel strike had offset the railroad's steady climb from the 1958 recession.

Directors of the B & O declared dividends for 1960 of $4 per share of preferred stock and $1.50 per share of common. Both figures equal the amounts paid in 1959.

To a stockholder who expressed disappointment at the absence of an extra common dividend, Simpson said that road had made "a great accomplishment" in the face of the steel strike, rising expenses and other factors. He said dividend increases would be considered next year if conditions justify.

Simpson said carloadings were up 11 per cent and freight revenues rose 9.8 per cent during the first half of 1959 and the company's gross revenue for the first 10 months of the year was about 334 million dollars or 2.32 per cent over that for the corresponding period of 1958. Other increases reported were operating expenses (3.52 per cent), ton miles (3 per cent) and carloadings (2.6 per cent.)

Simpson reported net income at 11½ million for the 10 months, down 3.4 million or 22.8 per cent.

The 133rd annual stockholders meeting drew representation of 91.32 per cent of the company's stock, a new high.

Move To Quash Motherwell's Indictment Fails

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A Sierra judge refused Monday to dismiss a murder indictment against Larry Lord Motherwell and set Jan. 11 as the date for trying the Washington, D.C., man for the mystery death of well-to-do widow Pearl Putney.

Superior Judge Winslow Christian denied the motion to throw out the indictment after a spirited argument by defense counsel Robert Fugazi of Truckee.

Fugazi, hired by Motherwell's Washington attorney, John T. Regas, said he would seek a writ of prohibition in the Third District Court of Appeal in Sacramento within 15 days. The writ, he said, will seek to prevent the case from coming to trial in Judge Christian's court.

Motherwell, 43, sat quietly in the small courtroom.

He has pleaded innocent to killing the 72-year-old widow.

Her skeleton was found last Aug. 16 in a forested area near Sierraville, about 35 miles from this small Sierra community in Northern California. The two started on a transcontinental motor trip in the summer of 1958.

How, when and where Mrs. Putney died remains a mystery. Fugazi told the judge "There was no evidence the defendant was in this county with Mrs. Putney."

The attorney also objected strongly to a television cameraman filming a portion of the grand jury proceedings Oct. 26 from outside the courtroom.

The judge said he felt the grand jury and witnesses were not aware of this "breach of decorum" and therefore Fugazi's point was not valid.

The judge said the deliberations were in secret, and, answering another Fugazi objection, said the grand jury did not exchange any information with spectators in the courthouse.

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business analysts said Monday the fast pace at which Americans are spending their money is doing a lot to keep the economy healthy.

"The high level of consumer spending remains an element of strength," observed Investors Advistory Institute, Inc. "October retail trade was estimated at just over 19 billion dollars, nine per cent above last year's record level.

"With Christmas business expected to be bigger than ever before, total retail sales for 1959 could reach an all-time high of 215 billion dollars.' It thus appears that the steel strike has not seriously affected consumer confidence while its influence on national buying power so far has been localized and limited."

Business Reports, Inc., says "the chief plus signs in the economy remain a persistently high consumer demand and strong indications of a good demand for the 1960 automobiles. Additionally, it would appear that money rates have topped out.

"The minus signs, however, also persist. We feel that good business conditions will continue into 1960, feeding on demand now prolonged by the steel strike, but that the same strike has eliminated any chance for further expansion of the boom which has marked the recovery from the 1957-58 recession."

"Notwithstanding the attractive long-range potentials for the new industry of science," says Standard and Poor's Corp., "many representative stocks have advanced to a point where caution signals should again be flying. However, the interest in this group suggests that latent buying power is available and could be channeled into more conventional stocks, but probably not until existing uncertainties are 'relieved."

The average person has 125 thousand hairs on his head.

Police Probe Theft Of $1,652 In Gems

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police checked for fingerprints Monday in a West Baltimore fashionable home where an estimated $1,652 in gems was stolen during the weekend.

Police said the theft was discovered late Sunday night when Mrs. Elfrieda Hehl returned to her two-story brick and stone home in the Ten Hills section. She had spent the weekend at her son's home in nearby Catonsville.

Police said a 12 by 10-inch window in a rear door was broken, apparently by the thief or thieves.

Cop Cleared In Shooting

UPPER MARLBORO (AP) — Authorities decided Monday that Police Pvt. William Rutherford was in "all respects properly performing his duty" in shooting a prisoner to death Saturday night.

The decision was announced after an hour-long inquiry into the shooting of Elmer C. Duckett, 53, of Oxon Hill, Md. after he was booked on drunk and traffic violation charges.

Rutherford shot Duckett after the prisoner yanked a revolver from the holster of another policeman, Pvt. John Nagy, and shot Nagy. Nagy was reported recovering from three wounds.

Another development in the case was an announcement by authorities that one of the bullets fired by Duckett was apparently self-inflicted.

Three of the bullets hit Nagy, they said, but a fourth struck behind Duckett's right ear, causing a wound sufficiently serious to have killed him. One of the bullets fired by Rutherford hit him in the heart.

At the time of the shooting, Duckett was being led to a shower room preparatory to spending the night in Prince Georges County jail. He was unable to make bail bond on drunk, reckless driving and close following charges.

Duckett was not driving his car when Nagy and Rutherford arrested him. He was sleeping in it, in his driveway.

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business analysts said Monday the fast pace at which Americans are spending their money is doing a lot to keep the economy healthy.

"The high level of consumer spending remains an element of strength," observed Investors Advistory Institute, Inc. "October retail trade was estimated at just over 19 billion dollars, nine per cent above last year's record level.

"With Christmas business expected to be bigger than ever before, total retail sales for 1959 could reach an all-time high of 215 billion dollars. It thus appears that the steel strike has not seriously affected consumer confidence while its influence on national buying power so far has been localized and limited."

Business Reports, Inc., says "the chief plus signs in the economy remain a persistently high consumer demand and strong indications of a good demand for the 1960 automobiles. Additionally, it would appear that money rates have topped out.

"The minus signs, however, also persist. We feel that good business conditions will continue into 1960, feeding on demand now prolonged by the steel strike, but that the same strike has eliminated any chance for further expansion of the boom which has marked the recovery from the 1957-58 recession."

"Notwithstanding the attractive long-range potentials for the new industry of science," says Standard and Poor's Corp., "many representative stocks have advanced to a point where caution signals should again be flying. However, the interest in this group suggests that latent buying power is available and could be channeled into more conventional stocks, but probably not until existing uncertainties are relieved."

The average person has 125 thousand hairs on his head.

Police Probe Theft Of $1,652 In Gems

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police checked for fingerprints Monday in a West Baltimore fashionable home where an estimated $1,652 in gems was stolen during the weekend.

Police said the theft was discovered late Sunday night when Mrs. Elfrieda Hehl returned to her two-story brick and stone home in the Ten Hills section. She had spent the weekend at her son's home in nearby Catonsville.

Police said a 12 by 10-inch window in a rear door was broken, apparently by the thief or thieves.

Cop Cleared In Shooting

UPPER MARLBORO (AP) — Authorities decided Monday that Police Pvt. William Rutherford was in "all respects properly performing his duty" in shooting a prisoner to death Saturday night.

The decision was announced after an hour-long inquiry into the shooting of Elmer C. Duckett, 53, of Oxon Hill, Md. after he was booked on drunk and traffic violation charges.

Rutherford shot Duckett after the prisoner yanked a revolver from the holster of another policeman, Pvt. John Nagy, and shot Nagy. Nagy was reported recovering from three wounds.

Another development in the case was an announcement by authorities that one of the bullets fired by Duckett was apparently self-inflicted.

Three of the bullets hit Nagy, they said, but a fourth struck behind Duckett's right ear, causing a wound sufficiently serious to have killed him. One of the bullets fired by Rutherford hit him in the heart.

At the time of the shooting, Duckett was being led to a shower room preparatory to spending the night in Prince Georges County jail. He was unable to make bail bond on drunk, reckless driving and close following charges.

Duckett was not driving his car when Nagy and Rutherford arrested him. He was sleeping in it, in his driveway.

Municipal Buying Plan Tabled By City

The city has under consideration a plan to establish a purchasing department but final action will be delayed pending complete study.

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder approached the subject at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council and said she had suggested the department in a memo to members some time ago.

But a motion to establish it was delayed 4-1 when all except Mrs. Roeder voted to hold up the plan until it was fully discussed.

Mrs. Roeder said problems have developed in regard to certain materials up for bids and since the city is moving toward centralization, she felt it advisable to set up a purchasing department.

The department would be established within the framework of the present government and it was suggested that it become a branch of the City Clerk's office.

Mrs. Roeder said she felt money can be saved on purchases and complaints routed to one department—the one responsible.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming asked if the plan would apply to every purchase made by the city and Mrs. Roeder replied it would affect only those done by bids. Recommendations of the purchasing agent would be submitted to council for approval, as would his own ideas for purchases needed by the city.

Fleming, Water Commissioner G. Ray Light, Street Commissioner John J. Long and Mayor J. Edwin Keech all agreed with the need for such a department but voted to delay action until it has been fully discussed.

Light said the suggestion is in line with his thinking and added he would like to see a single warehouse for all departments and operated such as those in private industry. He said he felt the suggestion a step in the right direction but felt certain controls will be necessary. He said he would like to see a perpetual inventory of all stocks which the Water Department does not have and which, he said, he doubts any other department of the city has.

Fleming said the idea is a "good thing" but that all members would get a broader understanding if it were discussed at one of council's special meetings.

Mayor Keech said it was a big project and agreed it is needed but also favored further discussion before final action.

Legion Posts Plan Events

Mountain District, American Legion, composed of posts in Allegany and Garrett counties, Sunday met in Fort Cumberland Post 13 home to take action on three projects.

The first, according to Charles Griffith, this city, district commander, will be a highway save-a-life campaign on the weekend of December 5-6. Legionnaires will distribute stickers from the major intersections.

The district also approved a plan to hold a dance for the benefit of the workshop for mentally retarded children here.

The Allegany and Garrett posts approved a four-year program that will have as its object the election of David Brigham, former state commander, as national commander.

Griffith pointed out that this state has never had a national Legion commander. Appointed as co-chairman were Jonas McKenzie of Grantsville for Garrett County and John Devlin of Midland for Allegany County.

Also discussed was a two-county membership campaign.

Local Church Installs Pastor

Rev. Connell T. Chaney was installed Sunday as pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren in services that highlighted a day's activities for the members.

Rev. Mr. Chaney was inducted into his pastorate by Rev. Edward G. Wenger, pastor of Oak Park Church of the Brethren, Oakland, and Rev. Herbert Alford, pastor of Frostburg Church of the Brethren, representing Western Maryland District ministers of the denomination.

Sunday morning during regular services, the church's new parsonage at 609 Elmwood Street was dedicated. Open house was held at the pastor's residence during the afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Chaney, a former Frostburg resident, served as pastor of Bear Creek and Oak Grove Churches of the Brethren in the Accident area, and came to Living Stone Church from Wiley Ford Church of the Brethren.

He succeeded Rev. Wayne Eberly at the local church.

Man Is Jailed On Motor Counts

A Cullen, Md., man was fined $200 and costs and ordered committed to the Allegany County Jail for 90 days in default of the fines after being found guilty of four serious motor vehicle violations.

Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti fined the man, Harley C. Fultz, after finding him guilty of the charges, including failing to stop after striking another vehicle.

Fultz, along with a Cullen youth, was arrested Saturday night by Trooper George Robinett of the Maryland State Police after police received two reports of hit-and-run accidents.

Trooper Robinett yesterday informed the court that both Fultz and the youth admitted driving the vehicle which damaged two other cars on the Oldtown Road. The youth forfeited a $152 bond.

Boys Given Sentences In Theft

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday passed sentence on two 16-year-old youths who entered guilty pleas in Allegany County Circuit Court on November 6 to breaking and entering the Wilson Hardware Store on North Mechanic Street and taking six pistols and 1,100 rounds of ammunition.

One of the youths, John N. Leighty, Christie Road, was sent to the Maryland Training School for Boys while the other, Franklin C. White, Valley Road, was placed on probation for a period of two years under strict parole terms.

The youth was ordered to report regularly to James F. Lewis, probation officer, and to be of good behavior and stay away from other youths of questionable character.

During the hearing in court on November 6 it was stated by Earl E. Manges, attorney for the youths, that White "probably came under the influence of Leighty." The latter has a record of law violations and previously was committed to the Training School in another case. The White youth had no previous police record.

The two youths left their homes late in October and after breaking into the hardware store spent several nights in an abandoned farm house and barn on the Williams Road.

Later they took a bus to Oakland and were staying at a motel in that community when they were spotted by Cpl. Samuel Conrad of the State Police. The officer recognized them from a description sent out by police.

Petition Fails On Residency For Policemen

A petition to send Charter Resolution Amendment 12 to a referendum has failed and a law removing the three-year residency requirement for applicants for positions of police and firemen has gone into effect here.

The amendment is effective as of November 10. Under the new law, probationary members of the two departments may come from anywhere in the area. They need not reside within the city during the 13 months' probationary period but after becoming regular members of either department must become residents within 30 days.

Original intent of the ordinance was to obtain more applicants, particularly for patrolmen in the Police Department.

The move for a referendum was led by the local Fraternal Order of Police and also had the backing of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, in reporting on the petitions, said they contained signatures of 2,749 residents. However, only 2,006 were verified in a check of registration files by Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk. Under the city's home rule, 20 per cent of the registered voters or 2,320, would be necessary to send the issue to a referendum.

Ullery said that the petitioners were given the benefit of every doubt during the check but despite that the names of 743 were removed from the petition. A recheck would have little effect if any on the report made yesterday, it was said.

Later, Ullery said that a scheduled examination for patrolmen for which applications are being received will be conducted under the old law requiring three-year residency unless the Civil Service Commission rules otherwise. Applications are being received at the City Clerk's office until November 24 and the commission is to set the examination date that night.

Men Of St. John's To Meet Tonight

Men of St. John's Lutheran Church will hold their regular meeting and conduct a "work night" today at 7 p. m. at the church.

Edward Athey, recording secretary, said members are asked to wear work clothes. Work will include the church pews.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Ordinances With 'Work Clauses' Killed By Council

The Mayor and Council yesterday defeated all ordinances containing "work clauses" for city prisoners who default fines in certain cases and ordered that they be re-written.

The ordinances had been held up for one week pending further study and discussion.

Major objection to the work clauses as written concerned the responsibility of the city in event of injury to the prisoners, benefits to which the prisoners were entitled, if any, and how they were to be credited in working out their fines.

The three ordinances which gave the police magistrate, at his discretion, power to order prisoners to work were these: Raising the fine of those arrested as tramps, vagrants or street walkers to $100; removing the $1 minimum and retaining the $100 maximum fine under a section entitled "Motor Vehicles"; and making the fine $100 for drunkenness.

A new plan probably will be discussed Friday at 7:30 p. m. when council holds another of its special meetings to discuss pending issues and problems.

It is reported to include a "hard labor" sentence not to exceed 10 days, with the department for whom prisoners work assuming the responsibility of providing three meals a day and 50 cents a day to the prisoners.

In routine actions yesterday, council accepted the bid of Crescent Heating Company, this city, of $1,258 for an oil-fired furnace for the hangar garage at Municipal Airport; and ordered payment of $7,000 to Cumberland Contracting Company representing 90 per cent of the work to date on the Brown Avenue improvement project.

The Seventh Day Adventist Church was granted permission to play carols and solicit funds house-to-house for its Christmas program from November 28 through December from 5-9 p. m. daily except Sunday; and the Salvation Army was granted permission to have its kettles on local streets from Saturday, November 28, through Christmas Eve in behalf of its holiday program.

Council proclaimed Saturday, November 21, from 8 to 10 p. m. as "Cumberland YMCA Visitation Day."

Freedom Brief For Two Men On Work Gang

Cumberland's "work gang", composed of two men convicted of minor criminal charges and sentenced to work out their time with the street department, had a short-lived freedom over the weekend.

The men were released from City Jail Friday morning after working out more than $100 in fines. They were the first ordered to work out fines in years.

However, shortly after midnight Friday, just 13 hours after their release, they were arrested for being drunk on public streets.

They were tried Saturday morning in Police Court and fined $25 each.

Damage Suit Filed By LaVale Man

A damage suit for $6,500 was docketed in Circuit Court yesterday by D. Clifford Goodfellow, LaVale, against Harry E. Kettering, Fairmont, as the result of a crash on Sideline Hill Mountain on November 30, 1956.

The declaration, filed by Attorney George R. Hughes Jr., states that Goodfellow was a passenger in a car owned and driven by Kettering when it crashed into the rear of a truck being operated by Harry Lucas.

Goodfellow claims he suffered cuts about the arms and legs and injuries to his neck and back. He also claims his clothing was ruined in the crash.

Gov. Underwood Seeks Federal Jobless Aid

Sees Help With Road Construction

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI)—A U. S. Senate special committee on Unemployment Problems was told Monday the federal government should help improve the condition of West Virginia's jobless.

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, in an address propared for the one-day committee hearing here, said he did not think "states should beg the federal government for aid."

However, he said the government had an obligation to act in emergencies. "And West Virginia's unemployment problem is certainly an emergency," the governor emphasized.

Unable To Appear

Because of inclement weather, Underwood was unable to appear personally before the committee. The congressional group meets Tuesday at Beckley and Fayette and Wednesday journeys to Wheeling.

Underwood, as on previous occasion, suggested again that some relief to the jobless could be provided for in road construction. He said the "foul blow" of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads which withdrew more than $33,000,000 of state aid for next year had hampered this proposal.

"No one can deny the healthy effect this sum of money could have had on the economy of West Virginia," Underwood asserted. "I suggest strongly that Congress and the federal administration resolve this road dilemma at the earliest possible moment."

2,130 Laid Off

The governor pointed out that 3,130 workers were laid off in the Welch area because of secondary effects of the steel strike, 23.3 per cent of such indirect layoffs in the state.

Underwood said he felt Congress will be obligated to take action if the steel strike is not settled by the end of the 80-day "cooling off" period. But he said if the steel strike is settled permanently, West Virginia will have a serious problem of lingering economic readjustment.

Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.), head of the committee, said the committee's purpose was to try and determine why so much unemployment still exists and what measures can be taken to correct the situation.

Randolph noted the Senate had passed an improved version of a bill which would authorize $289,000,000 in loans for industrial development in areas of persistent and heavy unemployment as well as a Youth Conservation Corps measure. Both still need House approval before going to the President for signature.

Court To Study Morals Motion

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Supreme Court Monday, in effect, agreed to take up the question of whether such a thing as "public morals" can actually be determined.

The Marion County Criminal Court first indicted Israel Miller on a charge of allegedly distributing lewd photographs. He appealed and the circuit court quashed the indictment.

It sustained a defense motion challenging constitutionality of a statute regarding obscenity which attempted to determine "public morals." The lower court certified its ruling to the Supreme Court for a final decision.

The defense motion said there was doubt whether there is such a thing as "public morals." It said the law illegally attempts to set standards for judging of obscenity.

The motion said "only a person — that is an individual—can have morals, and in determining the standard of public morals, there are as many different standards and criteria as there are individuals constituting the public."

Ellerslie 4-H'ers Hear Talk On Adolescence

ELLERSLIE — Miss Nancy Marsteller, assistant home demonstration agent of Allegany County, spoke on "Adolescence" during a recent meeting of the 4-H Club at the home of Mrs. Mary Porter.

The girls repeated the pledge at the meeting presided over by Miss Janie Krampf. Members present were Linda Porter, Sandra Shroyer, Bonnie Mason, Jody Zembower, Nita Hillebrecht, Barbara, Mary K. and Judy Logue, Mrs. Marie Zembower, Mrs. Vivian Shroyer and Mrs. Mary Porter.

Methodist Board Meets On Friday

LONACONING — The official board of the First Methodist Church will meet on Friday at 7:30 p. m. and the commissions on membership, evangelism and missions will meet on Tuesday, November 24 at 7:30 p. m.

The church school supper will be held on Thursday. And the district conference will be held next Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the Berkeley Springs Methodist Church.

Westernport In Good Shape Financially

WESTERNPORT — The financial condition of Westernport is better than any of the years he has been auditing the town books, James P. Rogers, certified public accountant, informed Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Town Council at a special meeting.

The annual audit for the fiscal year from July 1, 1958 to June 30 was discussed by Rogers.

Revenue for the fiscal year totaled $145,496.07, an increase of $23,950.39 over last year. Expenditures for same period was $92,627.57, a rise of only $55.43.

Although there is a boost in almost every source of revenue, the biggest was from sewer service charges. This amounted to $16,203.65.

The auditor pointed out city officials will have to be cautious in considering expenditures as heavy payments on bond indebtedness funds will be required during the next few years.

The town has a bonded indebtedness of $374,000, incurred a few years ago for the erection of a filtration plant and other improvements of the water system.

Also the town owes a bank $5,999, the balance due on the No. 1 parking lot. If present rates of payments are continued, this amount should be paid in about a year or more. The money from the parking lot can then be placed in the general account.

Contractors are putting a steel lining on the inside of the water reservoir on Chestnut Street to eliminate waste of water by leakage. More water should be available when this work is completed. Indications were that the demand for water would exceed the supply if this work was not done. The cost of the steel lining will be $25,861.

Installation of water meters usually results in the conservation of water. It was stated that meters have been installed in most of the business places in Westernport and some of the residences. Installation of meters in all residences is anticipated..

Gov. Underwood Seeks Federal Jobless Aid

Sees Help With Road Construction

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI)—A U. S. Senate special committee on Unemployment Problems was told Monday the federal government should help improve the condition of West Virginia's jobless.

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, in an address propared for the one-day committee hearing here, said he did not think "states should beg the federal government for aid."

However, he said the government had an obligation to act in emergencies. "And West Virginia's unemployment problem is certainly an emergency," the governor emphasized.

Unable To Appear

Because of inclement weather, Underwood was unable to appear personally before the committee. The congressional group meets Tuesday at Beckley and Fayette and Wednesday journeys to Wheeling.

Underwood, as on previous occasion, suggested again that some relief to the jobless could be provided for in road construction. He said the "foul blow" of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads which withdrew more than $33,000,000 of state aid for next year had hampered this proposal.

"No one can deny the healthy effect this sum of money could have had on the economy of West Virginia," Underwood asserted. "I suggest strongly that Congress and the federal administration resolve this road dilemma at the earliest possible moment."

3,130 Laid Off

The governor pointed out that 3,130 workers were laid off in the Welch area because of secondary effects of the steel strike. 23.3 per cent of such indirect layoffs in the state.

Underwood said he felt Congress will be obligated to take action if the steel strike is not settled by the end of the 80-day "cooling off" period. But he said if the steel strike is settled permanently, West Virginia will have a serious problem of lingering economic readjustment.

Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.), head of the committee, said the committee's purpose was to try and determine why so much unemployment still exists and what measures can be taken to correct the situation.

Randolph noted the Senate had passed an improved version of a bill which would authorize $289,000,000 in loans for industrial development in areas of persistent and heavy unemployment as well as a Youth Conservation Corps measure. Both still need House approval before going to the President for signature.

Court To Study Morals Motion

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Supreme Court Monday, in effect, agreed to take up the question of whether such a thing as "public morals" can actually be determined.

The Marion County Criminal Court first indicted Israel Miller on a charge of allegedly distributing lewd photographs. He appealed and the circuit court quashed the indictment.

It sustained a defense motion challenging constitutionality of a statute regarding obscenity which attempted to determine "public morals." The lower court certified its ruling to the Supreme Court for a final decision.

The defense motion said there was doubt whether there is such a thing as "public morals." It said the law illegally attempts to set standards for judging of obscenity.

The motion said "only a person — that is an individual—can have morals, and in determining the standard of public morals, there are as many different standards and criteria as there are individuals constituting the public."

Westernport In Good Shape Financially

WESTERNPORT — The financial condition of Westernport is better than any of the years he has been auditing the town books, James P. Rogers, certified public accountant, informed Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Town Council at a special meeting.

The annual audit for the fiscal year from July 1, 1958 to June 30 was discussed by Rogers.

Revenue for the fiscal year totaled $145,496.07, an increase of $23,950.39 over last year. Expenditures for same period was $92,627.57, a rise of only $55.43.

Although there is a boost in almost every source of revenue, the biggest was from sewer service charges. This amounted to $16,203.65.

The auditor pointed out city officials will have to be cautious in considering expenditures as heavy payments on bond indebtedness funds will be required during the next few years.

The town has a bonded indebtedness of $374,000, incurred a few years ago for the erection of a filtration plant and other improvements of the water system.

Also the town owes a bank $5,999, the balance due on the No. 1 parking lot. If present rates of payments are continued, this amount should be paid in about a year or more. The money from the parking lot can then be placed in the general account.

Contractors are putting a steel lining on the inside of the water reservoir on Chestnut Street to eliminate waste of water by leakage. More water should be available when this work is completed. Indications were that the demand for water would exceed the supply if this work was not done. The cost of the steel lining will be $25,861.

Installation of water meters usually results in the conservation of water. It was stated that meters have been installed in most of the business places in Westernport and some of the residences. Installation of meters in all residences is anticipated..

Rev. John S. Park, pastor, said all but $2,500 of the total amount was collected in advance of the project, and added that the mortgage was paid off in just about half of the specified time.

The work was undertaken because of the widening of U. S. Route 220 in the area of the church. The building was moved some distance back from the highway.

Rev. Mr. Park, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Park, 122 Virginia Avenue, said a basement was dug for the new location of the church, a furnace installed, and the grounds landscaped and lighted. A new bulletin board was also erected, the pastor stated.

Petrou Trial Set For December 7

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—Harrison County Criminal Court Judge Arlos J. Harbert Saturday set Dec. 7 for the trial of Nick Petrou, 54, accused slayer of two Clarksburg women April, 27, 1955.

Harbert also appointed Clarksburg attorney Donald R. Wilson as counsel for Petrou.

Wilson is expected to confer with Petrou Monday. Following this conference, it may disclose how Petrou plans to plead. It was reported that he was going to plead innocent despite an alleged confession in which he admitted slaying Mrs. Frances Laughlin, and her part-time maid during a robbery attempt at the Laughlin home.

City Lakes Over Crest

Lake Gordon and Lake Koon are one inch above the crest of the spillway, Sanitary Engineer Franklin J. Blaney reported yesterday. Consumption for the week ending Sunday averaged 13,770,000 gallons daily compared to 11,848,000 the same period a year ago.

Dinner Set Today

PIEDMONT — The Soroptimist Club will hold a dinner meeting at the St. Ann Hotel today at 6 p. m. Plans will be made for the club's Christmas party.

Interest Rates

When this Association was organized nearly 20 years ago, interest rates on savings had sunk so low that there was not much incentive for people to save. In recent times we have watched a rash of interest rate increases. We think this is a good change which will help to restore the oldtime habits of thrift and saving.

This Association paid a dividend of 4% on savings at the end of the first year of its existence and has continued to pay 4% dividends ever since. At the same time is has built up reserves that now amount to 11% of all its savings share accounts.

The reasons for this extra-ordinary record are our low overhead costs of operation and all our funds are kept at work in first mortgages helping worthy people in this community to secure homes.

Times-News Policy On Ads Commended

The commander of the Maryland Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and 18 district councilmen, who set policy of the state organization went on record Sunday at a meeting at Queens Point Memorial Post in McCoole as "wholeheartedly in accord with the Times-News papers statement that it will refuse to accept advertising copy that borders on indecency or stimulates unnatural or unwholesome attitudes."

State VFW Commander Arthur J. Agnew, of Baltimore, said a copy of the resolution adopted at the council meeting will be sent to the Times-News papers and also to every newspaper published in Maryland. These other newspapers will be asked by the VFW to adopt a similar policy in regard to lurid ads.

The resolution supporting the Times-News policy was put before the council meeting by Marty Sinsheimer, of Baltimore, past state VFW commander.

The motion was seconded and unanimously adopted.

Commander Paul Moore of Henry Hart Post 1411, VFW, this city, attended the meeting as patriotic instructor for the state department of the VFW. Also attending was James Edwards, of McCoole, who is commander of the seven VFW posts in this area.

Youths Get Jail Terms

Two Johnstown, Pa., youths were given jail sentences yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti sentenced the youths after finding them guilty of larceny of gasoline from a service station on U. S. Route 40, west of Cumberland.

The youths, John Henry Mangum, 19, and William Hardwick, 17, were arrested yesterday by Maryland State Trooper Ronald Davis in LaVale after receiving a pickup for their arrest.

Trooper Davis testified that the youths pulled up to the gasoline station and purchased 50 cents worth of gas. While the attendant was in the building they proceeded to pump 12½ gallons more into their car and took off.

Mangum was sentenced to 30 days in the Allegany County Jail on the larceny charge and fined $25 for operating a vehicle without headlights. Hardwick received a straight 30-day sentence in the county lockup for his part in stealing the gasoline.

City Approves Health Group Office Lease

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved a lease with the Maryland Health Department for rental of the third floor of the Public Safety Building.

Annual rental will be $2,400 with extra charges for heating, cleaning, general maintenance and electricity. The city will provide elevator service in the building.

The lease arrangement was worked out by city and state officials at meetings here. It followed an ultimatum from the city that municipal offices occupied by health offices and laboratories would have to be vacated unless a rental agreement was reached. The city has provided the laboratory space prior to this time.

Council rejected an appeal for assistance in the annual Christmas Seal campaign of the Allegany-Garrett TB Association in being consistent with a policy previously set to turn down all such appeals.

Filed was a letter from Sacred Heart Hospital Auxiliary supporting addition of fluorine to the city water supply.

Sanitary Engineer Franklin J. Blaney was commended in a letter from Woodward Pealer, co-chairman of the CUF campaign, for his part in making the Classified Division attain a record this year.

Bedford Rd. Church Holds Service To Burn Mortgage

A mortgage burning ceremony was held Sunday at Bethel Methodist Church, Bedford Road, representing the completion of a $10,000 improvement project.

Rev. John S. Park, pastor, said all but $2,500 of the total amount was collected in advance of the project, and added that the mortgage was paid off in just about half of the specified time.

The work was undertaken because of the widening of U. S. Route 220 in the area of the church. The building was moved some distance back from the highway.

Rev. Mr. Park, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Park, 122 Virginia Avenue, said a basement was dug for the new location of the church, a furnace installed, and the grounds landscaped and lighted. A new bulletin board was also erected, the pastor stated.

Dewayne Hite was chairman of the building committee that planned the project, Rev. Mr. Park said, adding that all departments of the church participated in financing the project. The work was begun early in 1957.

Anticipated improvements include plastering and painting of the church sanctuary, the pastor stated.

Bogs: Cranberry And Bureaucratic

Cranberries grow in bogs and go well with turkey. With Thanksgiving only days away, the cranberry industry fears that profit prospects on this year's crop may be bogged down in the shifting muck of government bureaucracy.

Producers are furious, and some of them demand the political head of Secretary Arthur S. Flemming of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Flemming's responsibility is to protect the nation's health against contaminated foods. The Food and Drug Act instructs him to act against sprays, preservatives and other additives which have not been proved safe for human consumption.

The burden of proof is placed on industries. It is they who are required to show that chemicals in food are safe in the amounts used. The government is not required to show that the chemicals are harmful.

The chemical that has been worrying Secretary Flemming has not been proved harmful. Or safe, either. It is aminotriazole, a standard weed and brush killer. Mr. Flemming's department has approved the use of aminotriazole to kill weeds in cranberry bogs, but only after harvesting — when crops could not be contaminated.

The department has found, however, that two lots of cranberries among those tested did contain some aminotriazole. It has said so publicly. The result has been general confusion in government circles, in stores and among cranberry producers. Chances are that the contamination doesn't affect many lots and is not dangerous even in the affected lots. But people don't like to take chances with their health.

Treaty For Antarctica May Set Precedent For Demilitarization

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Despite some of the gloom headlines from other parts of the world, a cheerful development is expected here just a few days before Thanksgiving. It's a treaty regarding the Antarctic which probably won't make headlines. But it should set a completely new precedent for banning military operations of any kind from one part of the globe.

One wholesome aspect of this treaty is that the United States and Soviet Russia have been working side by side in complete harmony. As one Latin-American delegate remarked: "They've been working as if they'd always loved each other."

There have been some minor differences between the 12 countries interested in the Antarctic. Chile, the United States, the United Kingdom, and most countries want to permit atomic experiments in the icy wastes for scientific purposes. The melting of icebergs, and icecaps, they believe, might be accomplished by atomic energy.

However, Argentina is opposed even to scientific atomic tests. The Argentines are worried about radioactive poison which may blow back on their adjacent cities. The Argentine navy has been demanding that President Frondizi not agree to any atomic explosions of any shape or kind in the area.

Significantly, Russia would go even further than the United States and likewise ban all atomic explosions, even scientific ones.

These differences, however, are minor. And the basic fact is that no country wants to hold out against a treaty which should set a milestone for future generations by showing that the civilized nations of the world can get together to demilitarize part of the world. If they can demilitarize the Antarctic, a precedent may be set for demilitarizing the populated areas of the world.

Cranberries And Australia

As the Antarctic conference neared its end, U. S. delegate Herman Phleger made a motion in secret session that the next meeting of the Antarctic nations be held in Canberra, Australia. His pronunciation was a little faulty however and he appeared to say "Cranberry, Australia."

This brought a chuckle from the delegates.

"Thank you very much," replied Ambassador Howard Beale, the delegate of Australia. "We shall be happy to act as host. But I hope we shall have some future conferences also in Washingtonberry, and that none of us will get poisoned."

Cranberry Dilemma

Most of the chemists of the Food and Drug Administration are now concentrating on testing cranberries in order to separate those which are contaminated by weed-killer and those which are safe for human consumption. It's a gigantic task — partly because two chemists can test only three lots of cranberries per day. They have to test the equivalent of one one-millionth of a berry, which is that part containing the cancer-producing poison. So the testing job is not easy.

Some canned cranberries are identified by code mark on the label as to what part of the country they come from, but identifying and separating them is a tedious, difficult job.

Officials of the Food and Drug Administration say that it all points to the danger and uncertainty of the new farm sprays. During and after the war, all storts of herbicides were developed, some of them not fully tested. Some like DDT have now been banned from use in dairy barns. Others should be, but have not.

The harassed Food and Drug Administration doesn't always know where to draw the line.

"If I banned all food containing arsenic," says Commissioner George Larrick, "the American people wouldn't have very much left to eat. It's established that arsenic can cause cancer. But arsenic is found in oysters, crabs, lobsters, and many other types of food, though in such small quantities that it should not be dangerous."

The difficulty of ascertaining the extent of cranberry contamination was the chief reason why Food and Drug officials waited until such a short time before Thanksgiving to act. First word that the weed-killer aminotriazole could conduce cancer came to F and D officials last March from the cranberry cooperative, Ocean Spray, whose executives expressed concern over use of the weed-killer in Oregon and Washington.

Food and Drug officials say they began testing the crop immediately but in fairness to all concerned wanted the test to be thorough. It was not finished until October.

At about that time the Coos Bay World in Oregon published first word that the Oregon crop might be held up. It was the understanding of Food and Drug that the northwest crop would be held up by the cranberry cooperative. But when Food and Drug learned that one shipment had been sold on the market in Seattle, Commissioner Larrick took the facts to Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare Flemming and he hit the ceiling. Flemming was subjected to all sorts of political pressure from Secretary of Agriculture Benson and others. But he stuck to his guns that northwest cranberries on which the weed-killer had been used must not be sold to the American public.

Washington Pipeline

Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island, Democrat, was urged by Senators to investigate phoniness on television but he objected to paying $4,500 for a copy of the grand jury testimony taken in New York. . . . A. C. Lenbeck, the chief security officer for the Naval Medical Research Institute at Bethesda, Md., threatened last week to report anyone to the commanding officer who failed to sign the register certifying that his office safe was locked for the night. The first violator who forgot to sign was — A. C. Lenbeck. . . . It doesn't pay to give tax favors to the big steel companies. When the Democratic commissioners of Bucks County, Pa., gave a low tax assessment to the giant Fairless plant of U. S. Steel, they were defeated. It will be interesting to see whether the Republicans now revise taxes. . . . Congressmen from the 12 states that expect to lose Congressional seats after the 1960 census will move next year to enlarge the House of Representatives. They will claim the 435-member limit set in 1911 is now out of date. They would permit growing states like California to add new seats without reducing the representation of any other state. This would mean increasing the number of Congressmen from 435 to 455.

Picking Ideal 'Practical' Presidential Tickets

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—What would be the ideal ticket for each of the two major parties in the 1960 campaign as it would be set up if the "practical politicians" really had their say? Here it is:

1. Richard M. Nixon for president and Nelson A. Rockefeller for Vice President on the Republican ticket.

2. Adlai Stevenson for President and John F. Kennedy for Vice President on the Democratic ticket.

The phrase "practical politicians" means the men and women of experience in the two major parties who pick most of the delegates to a convention and want to see on the ticket a combination of popular personalities with a strong following in various parts of the country. They look also for potential vote-getting power on particular issues of national and international importance likely to be debated in the campaign.

Certain queries naturally arise when the names are grouped as above on the two tickets.

First, there is to be expected at once the comments, "Of course, Rockefeller wouldn't take second place," or "Kennedy doesn't want the Vice Presidency."

Obviously, while there is still a chance to be in the first spot, no prospective candidate for the Presidency is willing to say now publicly that he would take second place. So this kind of question at present is academic. It becomes real only when each party has actually made its first choice, and any chance of winning the Presidential nomination for somebody else is gone. At that moment the question becomes concrete. It might be put to a wavering personality in this form: "Would you turn down the Vice Presidency when you are only a heartbeat away from the Presidency if your own Presidential condidate should win the election?"

Senator Kennedy was willing to take second place on the Democratic ticket in 1956 and came within a few votes of winning the Vice Presidential nomination.

Governor Rockefeller is a young man who is relatively new in politics. By becoming the Vice Presidential candidate, he would get a chance to campaign the country and win friends for a 1964 Presidential nomination if the Republicans lose in 1960.

Likewise, if the Republicans win in 1960, he would be catapulted into the Vice Presidency of the United States—a position of major influence not only in domestic but in foreign policy. Only a little more than a year ago, he was not a political figure at all and was given only an outside chance of winning the governorship of New York.

The advantages to each part in the combination suggested above are numerous. Take the Republicans first: the Nixon experience in previous campaigns and his prestige in his present office have given him publicity that no other candidate has achieved. Besides, Nixon is certain to attract the conservatives, while Rockefeller is certain to attract the so-called "modern" Republicans, "liberals" and "independents" who are more like the Democrats of recent years than Republicans. Harmony is one of the necessary objectives of the Republican Party in the 1960 campaign.

On the Democratic side, the religious issue which has been construed as a handicap by some observers can be turned into an advantage. For the objectors would be few toward a Vice Presidential candidate of any religion, whereas some of those who vote for a man because of his religion would be attracted to the ticket when someone of their own religious persuasion is named on it.

There's the comment to be heard that "Stevenson can't win —he has been beaten twice," and that "Nixon can't win." Practical politicians are not influenced too much by these objections. They rationalize the race next year as something different After all, Stevenson was running against Ike in both his tries, and last time got the biggest Democratic vote in history. As for Nixon, he has been twice elected Vice President, and the polls today show him out in front of any Democrat.

Certainly if the combination suggested is named by each party, there will be no issue of "rich man versus poor man." For each of the two suggested Vice Presidential nominees — Rockefeller and Kennedy — are inheritors of wealth. As for Stevenson and Nixon, they can each still display — for the cameras — shoes with holes in them.

Already one can hear the orators at the conventions pridefully saying of the four men, respectively, that they come from "the great state of California" and "the great state of New York" and from "the great state of Illinois" and "the great state of Massachusetts."

But, strangely enough, not one of the four is as yet an avowed candidate for anything — except maybe the headlines.

Passport Problems

The effort of the State Department to obtain a Congressional decision as to what an American passport is and who is entitled to one ought not to be withstood. If Communists or Anarchists or felons or anyone else is not entitled to an American passport, the decision must be in Congress and can be nowhere else. Congress should pass a law.

To show how desperate the case can be, take this testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. The witness is Martin Popper, a New York lawyer. He was shown a copy of his passport application which contains three questions, as follows:

"Are you now a member of the Communist Party? (Write 'yes' or 'no.')

"Have you ever been a member of the Communist Party? (Write 'yes' or 'no.')

"If ever a member, state period of membership from ..... to ....."

Frank S. Tavenner, counsel for the Committee, engaged in the following colloquy with Popper:

". . . Do you observe any answer was given to any one of those three questions?

"Mr. Popper. No; there was no answer given to any of the questions.

"Mr. Tavenner. Why did you not answer those questions?

"Mr. Popper. Because it had been decided by the Supreme Court the State Department had no authority or power to ask the questions.

"Mr. Tavenner. The purpose of this hearing, Mr. Popper, is to determine, among other things, whether or not the Secretary of State should be given authority, by legislation, to require passport applicants to furnish information of the nature called for in these three questions.

"I would, therefore, like to ask you if at the time you executed your application for a passport you were a member of the Communist Party?

"Mr. Popper. I respectfully decline to answer that question, Mr. Tavenner, on the following grounds: I understand the Supreme Court's decision in the Watkins Case to mean that this Committee's authorizing resolution is so vague that to compel testimony under it would violate the due process clause of the Federal Constitution and that the jurisdiction which the Committee has assumed is so limitless that its inquiries into the area of speech, press, or political belief and association abridges the freedoms guaranteed by the First Amendment.

"Furthermore, the subject matter of this investigation is equally limitless and, therefore, violates these same constitutional guarantees.

"I add that to the extent it is ascertainable, to the extent that the subject matter of this inquiry is ascertainable, this Committee is not authorized by Congress to conduct it.

"Therefore, I respectfully contend that the Committee has no authority to conduct this investigation.

"I also decline to answer the question because I do not believe it is pertinent.

"Mr. Tavenner. You object, then, on the ground of pertinency, as well as the ground of jurisdiction?

"Mr. Popper. Yes, on all of the grounds which I have just stated."

This is a very long quotation from the record but it states the entire case for the need for legislation. The Supreme Court, in the Watkins Decision, deprived the State Department of the right to decide who is and who is not entitled to a passport, but it gave that right to no other department of government. This means that passports are exit permits and re-entry permits for American citizens but that the United States may not determine whether it will or will not grant such an exit permit. The Supreme Court decision in the Watkins Case was not good law or practical administration. Congress must therefore provide good law and the Passport Office practical administration.

Bills to correct the errors of the Watkins Decision have been introduced in Congress. We are living in a troubled world. Passports issued promiscuously may fall into wrong hands as did many passports issued to Americans who fought in the Spanish Civil War. Popper was issued a passport to go to Germany to attend the Nuremberg trials in 1946. Then he went to Russia. These are his words:

"I received an invitation from one of the distinguished lawyers who was a member of the Soviet legal delegation to go to the Soviet Union and to talk to the lawyers there about my observations of the Nuremberg trial."

I select this testimony because it is typical of the problem.

UNCLE SAM'S POST OFFICE —The Post Office Department is experimenting with a machine which can instantaneously transmit letters from coast to coast and has the potential for revolutionizing the U. S. postal service.

The very hush-hush experiments are being carried on between Los Angeles and the Post Office department in Washington. It was a machine of the facsimile variety, but much more rapid. It can handle both typewritten or handwritten letters written on one side of the page.

The device can be put into general use within five years, according to persons familiar with it. Cost of transmitting a letter can be brought to below the present seven-cent airmail stamp.

One of the biggest reasons for the unusual secrecy which surrounds the project is the potential threat it holds against telegraph, telephone and cable companies. Cheap, instantaneous transmission of letters could put a sizable crimp in the commercial companies' operations and some people are fearful that they might try to lobby against its adoption.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield hinted at this new development in an address before the convention of the National Association of Postmasters.

"I am not given to star-gazing nor am I much of an unrealistic dreamer," Summerfield said, "but there are some things in the future that will amaze you. . . . The next step in mail service will be as revolutionary and as progressive as anything yet achieved."

Congress will surely come under great pressure to keep the Post Office operations along conventional lines. The issue of government encroachment in areas of private business, which was fought so bitterly during the New Deal era, may be fought all over again in the next few years.

A Transfer Of Note

By Leslie Gould

The New York Stock Exchange Weekly Bulletin reported:

Membership Transferred:

"Alan L. Eggers to Frank P. Egan,

"Penington, Colket & Co., 70 Pine Street, New York, 5, N. Y."

That was all. Just the bare announcement of a transfer of membership from one partner to another.

What it didn't say is that Alan L. Eggers — is one of the great heroes of World War I. He won the Congressional Medal of Honor for extraordinary bravery under fire in No-Man's-Land in a battle near le Catelet, France.

Here is the official citation:

"Becoming separated from their platoon by a smoke barrage, Sergeant Eggers, Sergeant John C. Latham and Corporal Thomas E. O'Shea took cover in a shell hole well within the enemy's lines.

"Upon hearing a call for help from an American tank which had become disabled 30 yards from them, the three soldiers left their shelter and started toward the tank under heavy fire from German machine guns and trench mortars.

"In crossing the fire-swept area, Corporal O'Shea was mortally wounded, but his companions, undeterred, proceeded to the tank, rescued a wounded officer and assisted two wounded soldiers to cover in the sap (an extended narrow trench wired for undermining an enemy's position) of a nearby trench.

"Sergeant Eggers and Sergeant Latham then returned to the tank in the face of violent fire, dismounted a Hotchkiss gun and took it back to where the wounded men were, keeping off the enemy all day by effective use of the gun and later bringing it, with the wounded men, back to our lines under cover of darkness."

That action was on September 29, 1918 — 41 years ago and Sergeant Eggers was then 22.

Because of ill health, Eggers is retiring to a lmited partnership in Penington, Colket & Co. His place on the floor is being taken by his long time assistant — Frank Egan.

Eggers, who was born in Saranac on November 2, 1895 and went to Cornell, has been a floor broker since 1929. He first was on the American Stock Exchange — then the Curb — for H. L. Wisner & Co. When that firm merged in 1938 with Penington, Colket, he became a partner for that Stock Exchange firm and its floor representative on the Big Board.

Most of his adult life has been spent in New Jersey. His home is in New Vernon. He has two sons — one in Princeton and the younger one in the Hun School, near Princeton.

When he won the Congressional Medal of Honor — the nation's highest award — he was attached to Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry, 27th Division. This was the old 7th Regiment.

Why Do Women Begin To Lose Their Hair?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A beautiful head of hair is a woman's stock in trade. It is a tragedy when it begins to fall out and a noticeable bald spot develops (alopecia). If a second or third bare spot appears, the victim is horrified.

There are many causes of alopecia and some are preventable. Hairs are easily broken at the roots by daily violent and repeated traction brought on by combing or tugging to prepare a pony tail. After months or years of such abuse, areas of diminished growth appear on top of the scalp and at the temples.

Previous scalp disease, such as greasy dandruff (seborrhea), encourages alopecia. A hereditary history of baldness also is a factor; two French dermatologists reported that the only girls who lost hair at adolescence wore a pony tail and came from these families.

Young women should learn to handle the tresses with more care. Avoid pulling, violent brushing, and irritating hair lotions. Change the style from time to time to release the strain on the roots in certain areas. Throw away night caps because they prevent evaporation of sweat.

Substances applied to the hair cause less damage than excessive manipulation. The fluids used in permanent waves, for example, do not destroy the keratin in the hair unless the liquids are too alkaline or rich in ammonia.

The hair reflects your general health. Hair loss follows illnesses such as typhoid fever and influenza as well as operations, delivery of a child, or an emotional shock. This may occur two to three months later and last six weeks. It is most marked around the temples.

Hormones also affect the condition of a woman's hair. Baldness sometimes follows the injection of male hormones in treating various disorders. But a pre-existing seborrhea usually exists in these cases, suggesting a relationship between the hormonal system and oily dandruff.

PRICKLING SENSATION

G. E. writes: Whenever I sit for a long time typing or writing, my arms and hands start to feel as if pins and needles were jabbing them. After I move around, this sensation disappears. Should something be done about this?

REPLY

Yes, provided it is bothersome enough to invest in X-rays and other tests necessary to uncover the cause. A structure in the neck may be pressing on the nerves or blood vessels of the arms when sitting in the typing position.

EYE INFECTION

Mrs. H. W. writes: I have just gotten over a case of uveitis and would like more information on this eye disease.

REPLY

Uveitis is inflammation of the uvea, which is mainly the iris, or colored shutter of the eye. There are several types of infection, some of which cause no visual impairment. Others may lead to total blindness.

MOUTH INFECTION

J. M. writes: Is there a cure for trench mouth?

REPLY

Yes, but stubborn cases may require continuous dental treatment for a long period of time. Drugs to kill the causative germs are available. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disease.

BOWLEGS

Mrs. O. C. writes: Are bowlegs hereditary?

REPLY

No.

LUMINOUS EYES

Mrs. A. H. writes: Is it harmful for a child to sleep with a toy animal that has eyes that glow in the dark? I have read about the harmful effects of rays emitted from luminous watch dials.

REPLY

A potential danger exists if these eyes are made of radioactive material. The manufacturer of the toy will be able to answer this question.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Bogs: Cranberry And Bureaucratic

Cranberries grow in bogs and go well with turkey. With Thanksgiving only days away, the cranberry industry fears that profit prospects on this year's crop may be bogged down in the shifting muck of government bureaucracy.

Producers are furious, and some of them demand the political head of Secretary Arthur S. Flemming of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Flemming's responsibility is to protect the nation's health against contaminated foods. The Food and Drug Act instructs him to act against sprays, preservatives and other additives which have not been proved safe for human consumption.

The burden of proof is placed on industries. It is they who are required to show that chemicals in food are safe in the amounts used. The government is not required to show that the chemicals are harmful.

The chemical that has been worrying Secretary Flemming has not been proved harmful. Or safe, either. It is aminotriazole, a standard weed and brush killer. Mr. Flemming's department has approved the use of aminotriazole to kill weeds in cranberry bogs, but only after harvesting — when crops could not be contaminated.

The department has found, however, that two lots of cranberries among those tested did contain some aminotriazole. It has said so publicly. The result has been general confusion in government circles, in stores and among cranberry producers. Chances are that the contamination doesn't affect many lots and is not dangerous even in the affected lots. But people don't like to take chances with their health.

Treaty For Antarctica May Set Precedent For Demilitarization

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Despite some of the gloom headlines from other parts of the world, a cheerful development is expected here just a few days before Thanksgiving. It's a treaty regarding the Antarctic which probably won't make headlines. But it should set a completely new precedent for banning military operations of any kind from one part of the globe.

One wholesome aspect of this treaty is that the United States and Soviet Russia have been working side by side in complete harmony. As one Latin-American delegate remarked: "They've been working as if they'd always loved each other."

There have been some minor differences between the 12 countries interested in the Antarctic. Chile, the United States, the United Kingdom, and most countries want to permit atomic experiments in the icy wastes for scientific purposes. The melting of icebergs, and icecaps, they believe, might be accomplished by atomic energy.

However, Argentina is opposed even to scientific atomic tests. The Argentines are worried about radioactive poison which may blow back on their adjacent cities. The Argentine navy has been demanding that President Frondizi not agree to any atomic explosions of any shape or kind in the area.

Significantly, Russia would go even further than the United States and likewise ban all atomic explosions, even scientific ones.

These differences, however, are minor. And the basic fact is that no country wants to hold out against a treaty which should set a milestone for future generations by showing that the civilized nations of the world can get together to demilitarize part of the world. If they can demilitarize the Antarctic, a precedent may be set for demilitarizing the populated areas of the world.

Cranberries And Australia

As the Antarctic conference neared its end, U. S. delegate Herman Phleger made a motion in secret session that the next meeting of the Antarctic nations be held in Canberra, Australia. His pronunciation was a little faulty however and he appeared to say "Cranberry, Australia."

This brought a chuckle from the delegates.

"Thank you very much," replied Ambassador Howard Beale, the delegate of Australia. "We shall be happy to act as host. But I hope we shall have some future conferences also in Washington-berry, and that none of us will get poisoned."

Cranberry Dilemma

Most of the chemists of the Food and Drug Administration are now concentrating on testing cranberries in order to separate those which are contaminated by weed-killer and those which are safe for human consumption. It's a gigantic task — partly because two chemists can test only three lots of cranberries per day. They have to test the equivalent of one one-millionth of a berry, which is that part containing the cancer-producing poison. So the testing job is not easy.

Some canned cranberries are identified by code mark on the label as to what part of the country they come from, but identifying and separating them is a tedious, difficult job.

Officials of the Food and Drug Administration say that it all points to the danger and uncertainty of the new farm sprays. During and after the war, all storts of herbicides were developed, some of them not fully tested. Some like DDT have now been banned from use in dairy barns. Others should be, but have not.

The harassed Food and Drug Administration doesn't always know where to draw the line.

"If I banned all food containing arsenic," says Commissioner George Larrick, "the American people wouldn't have very much left to eat. It's established that arsenic can cause cancer. But arsenic is found in oysters, crabs, lobsters, and many other types of food, though in such small quantities that it should not be dangerous."

The difficulty of ascertaining the extent of cranberry contamination was the chief reason why Food and Drug officials waited until such a short time before Thanksgiving to act. First word that the weed-killer aminotriazole could conduce cancer came to F and D officials last March from the cranberry cooperative, Ocean Spray, whose executives expressed concern over use of the weed-killer in Oregon and Washington.

Food and Drug officials say they began testing the crop immediately but in fairness to all concerned wanted the test to be thorough. It was not finished until October.

At about that time the Coos Bay World in Oregon published first word that the Oregon crop might be held up. It was the understanding of Food and Drug that the northwest crop would be held up by the cranberry cooperative. But when Food and Drug learned that one shipment had been sold on the market in Seattle, Commissioner Larrick took the facts to Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare Flemming and he hit the ceiling. Flemming was subjected to all sorts of political pressure from Secretary of Agriculture Benson and others. But he stuck to his guns that northwest cranberries on which the weed-killer had been used must not be sold to the American public.

John Pastore of Rhode Island, Democrat, was urged by Senators to investigate phoniness on television but he objected to paying $4,500 for a copy of the grand jury testimony taken in New York. . . . Congressmen from the 12 states that expect to lose Congressional seats after the 1960 census will move next year to enlarge the House of Representatives. They will claim the 435-member limit set in 1911 is now out of date. They would permit growing states like California to add new seats without reducing the representation of any other state. This would mean increasing the number of Congressmen from 435 to 455.

Picking Ideal 'Practical' Presidential Tickets

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16—What would be the ideal ticket for each of the two major parties in the 1960 campaign as it would be set up if the "practical politicians" really had their say? Here it is:

1. Richard M. Nixon for president and Nelson A. Rockefeller for Vice President on the Republican ticket.

2. Adlai Stevenson for President and John F. Kennedy for Vice President on the Democratic ticket.

The phrase "practical politicians" means the men and women of experience in the two major parties who pick most of the delegates to a convention and want to see on the ticket a combination of popular personalities with a strong following in various parts of the country. They look also for potential vote-getting power on particular issues of national and international importance likely to be debated in the campaign.

Certain queries naturally arise when the names are grouped as above on the two tickets.

First, there is to be expected at once the comments, "Of course, Rockefeller wouldn't take second place," or "Kennedy doesn't want the Vice Presidency."

Obviously, while there is still a chance to be in the first spot, no prospective candidate for the Presidency is willing to say now publicly that he would take second place. So this kind of question at present is academic. It becomes real only when each party has actually made its first choice, and any chance of winning the Presidential nomination for somebody else is gone. At that moment the question becomes concrete. It might be put to a wavering personality in this form: "Would you turn down the Vice Presidency when you are only a heartbeat away from the Presidency if your own Presidential condidate should win the election?"

Cheap, instantaneous transmission of letters could put a sizable crimp in the commercial companies' operations and some people are fearful that they might try to lobby against its adoption.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield hinted at this new development in an address before the convention of the National Association of Postmasters.

"I am not given to star-gazing nor am I much of an unrealistic dreamer," Summerfield said, "but there are some things in the future that will amaze you. . . . The next step in mail service will be as revolutionary and as progressive as anything yet achieved."

Congress will surely come under great pressure to keep the Post Office operations along conventional lines. The issue of government encroachment in areas of private business, which was fought so bitterly during the New Deal era, may be fought all over again in the next few years.

A Transfer Of Note

By Leslie Gould

The New York Stock Exchange Weekly Bulletin reported:

Membership Transferred:

"Alan L. Eggers to Frank P. Egan,

"Penington, Colket & Co., 70 Pine Street, New York, 5, N. Y."

That was all. Just the bare announcement of a transfer of membership from one partner to another.

What it didn't say is that Alan L. Eggers — is one of the great heroes of World War I. He won the Congressional Medal of Honor for extraordinary bravery under fire in No-Man's-Land in a battle near le Catelet, France.

Here is the official citation:

"Becoming separated from their platoon by a smoke barrage, Sergeant Eggers, Sergeant John C. Latham and Corporal Thomas E. O'Shea took cover in a shell hole well within the enemy's lines.

"Upon hearing a call for help from an American tank which had become disabled 30 yards from them, the three soldiers left their shelter and started toward the tank under heavy fire from German machine guns and trench mortars.

"In crossing the fire-swept area, Corporal O'Shea was mortally wounded, but his companions, undeterred, proceeded to the tank, rescued a wounded officer and assisted two wounded soldiers to cover in the sap (an extended narrow trench wired for undermining an enemy's position) of a nearby trench.

"Sergeant Eggers and Sergeant Latham then returned to the tank in the face of violent fire, dismounted a Hotchkiss gun and took it back to where the wounded men were, keeping off the enemy all day by effective use of the gun and later bringing it, with the wounded men, back to our lines under cover of darkness."

That action was on September 29, 1918 — 41 years ago and Sergeant Eggers was then 22.

Because of ill health, Eggers is retiring to a limited partnership in Penington, Colket & Co. His place on the floor is being taken by his long time assistant — Frank Egan.

Eggers, who was born in Saranac on November 2, 1895 and went to Cornell, has been a floor broker since 1929. He first was on the American Stock Exchange — then the Curb — for H. L. Wisner & Co. When that firm merged in 1938 with Penington, Colket, he became a partner for that Stock Exchange firm and its floor representative on the Big Board.

Most of his adult life has been spent in New Jersey. His home is in New Vernon. He has two sons — one in Princeton and the younger one in the Hun School, near Princeton.

When he won the Congressional Medal of Honor — the nation's highest award — he was attached to Machine Gun Company, 107th Infantry, 27th Division. This was the old 7th Regiment.

Why Do Women Begin To Lose Their Hair?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A beautiful head of hair is a woman's stock in trade. It is a tragedy when it begins to fall out and a noticeable bald spot develops (alopecia). If a second or third bare spot appears, the victim is horrified.

There are many causes of alopecia and some are preventable. Hairs are easily broken at the roots by daily violent and repeated traction brought on by combing or tugging to prepare a pony tail. After months or years of such abuse, areas of diminished growth appear on top of the scalp and at the temples.

Previous scalp disease, such as greasy dandruff (seborrhea), encourages alopecia. A hereditary history of baldness also is a factor; two French dermatologists reported that the only girls who lost hair at adolescence wore a pony tail and came from these families.

Young women should learn to handle the tresses with more care. Avoid pulling, violent brushing, and irritating hair lotions. Change the style from time to time to release the strain on the roots in certain areas. Throw away night caps because they prevent evaporation of sweat.

Substances applied to the hair cause less damage than excessive manipulation. The fluids used in permanent waves, for example, do not destroy the keratin in the hair unless the liquids are too alkaline or rich in ammonia.

The hair reflects your general health. Hair loss follows illnesses such as typhoid fever and influenza as well as operations, delivery of a child, or an emotional shock. This may occur two to three months later and last six weeks. It is most marked around the temples.

Hormones also affect the condition of a woman's hair. Baldness sometimes follows the injection of male hormones in treating various disorders. But a pre-existing seborrhea usually exists in these cases, suggesting a relationship between the hormonal system and oily dandruff.

PRICKLING SENSATION

G. E. writes: Whenever I sit for a long time typing or writing, my arms and hands start to feel as if pins and needles were jabbing them. After I move around, this sensation disappears. Should something be done about this?

REPLY

Yes, provided it is bothersome enough to invest in X-rays and other tests necessary to uncover the cause. A structure in the neck may be pressing on the nerves or blood vessels of the arms when sitting in the typing position.

EYE INFECTION

Mrs. H. W. writes: I have just gotten over a case of uveitis and would like more information on this eye disease.

REPLY

Uveitis is inflammation of the uvea, which is mainly the iris, or colored shutter of the eye. There are several types of infection, some of which cause no visual impairment. Others may lead to total blindness.

MOUTH INFECTION

J. M. writes: Is there a cure for trench mouth?

REPLY

Yes, but stubborn cases may require continuous dental treatment for a long period of time. Drugs to kill the causative germs are available. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disease.

BOWLEGS

Mrs. O. C. writes: Are bowlegs hereditary?

REPLY

No.

LUMINOUS EYES

Mrs. A. H. writes: Is it harmful for a child to sleep with a toy animal that has eyes that glow in the dark? I have read about the harmful effects of rays emitted from luminous watch dials.

REPLY

A potential danger exists if these eyes are made of radioactive material. The manufacturer of the toy will be able to answer this question.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

An inebriate in Hollywood was driving the wrong way on a Freeway. A cop overtook him and hollered, "Hey, you crazy or something? Can't you see those arrows?" "Are you kidding?" replied the inebriate. "I can't even see the Indians!"

"Why is it," screamed the boss in a cloak and suit emporium, "that every time I come into this cutting room, not a single one of you is working?"

A girl in the rear of the room volunteered to answer. "Mr. Shimmelwasser," she explained, "it's those darn rubber heels you wear!"

Four New Officials To Handle Allegany-Fort Hill Contest

Tony Pizatella Will Referee Thanksgiving

Others Are Garcia, Rentch And Emmart; Tickets Go On Sale

Four new officials will handle the twenty-fourth annual city championship game between the football teams of Allegany High School and Fort Hill High School on Thanksgiving Day (Nov.26), it was announced last night by Ed Schwarz, head coach of the Campers.

The referee will be Tony Pizatella and the umpire will be Tony Garcia. Both are from Fairmont and are graduates of Fairmont State College.

Kenneth Rentch, former Shepherdstown High School coach and now a member of the faculty of South Hagerstown High School, has been named as head linesman.

Virginian Is Named

The field judge will be Carlton Emmart, of Berryville, Va., member of the Valley Football Officials' Association of Winchester. Harold "Zip" Lorenz, former Charles Town High School coach, originally was slated for this job but he was unable to make it on the holiday and Emmart was named in his place.

Pitzatella and Garcia are members of the Monongahela Valley Chapter of the West Virginia Football Officials' Association. Rentch holds membership in the Eastern Panhandle Chapter of the West Virginia Officials' Association.

The names of the four officials were submitted by John R. Shelton, of Keyser, president of the West Virginia Football Officials' Association, and approved by Coaches Ed Schwarz, Allegany, and Charles Lattimer, Fort Hill.

The officials last year were Newton Anderson, of Buckhannon; Art Goldschien, Salem; William Kafer, Glenville College, and Richard Young, Morris Harvey College, Charleston.

Handled 13 Contests

Anderson served as an official at a Turkey Day game here for the 13th consecutive year. Goldschien was here for the sixth successive year and Kafer worked here three years in a row. Young was a newcomer. Fred "Chick" Weihl, of Weston, missed last year's contest after having worked 12 consecutive years.

Tickets for the Allegany-Fort Hill game went on sale yesterday at Campobello. The price of the pasteboards is 75 cents for students and $1.55 for adults. Students may purchase the tickets before or after school hours at the office of the new gymnasium at Allegany. Tickets for adults may be obtained at the main office.

Fort Hill's ticket sale is slated to get under way today at the school, it was announced last night by Victor D. Heisey, principal.

Fort Hill Is Host

Fort Hill will play host at next week's game and students of that school will occupy the concrete stands. The wooden stands on the opposite side of the Greenway Avenue stadium will be occupied by the Allegany students.

The first Fort Hill-Allegany game dates back to 1936 and was staged at Community Park on Wineow Street. Arthur G. Ramey, John McDonald and "Eck" Miers were the officials. The first game at the stadium was held in 1937 with Ramey, McDonald, Art Slocum and "Bid" Schwarzkopf as the officials.

Only one of the twenty-three holiday games held to date was postponed. That was the 1938 tilt which was stopped by a snowstorm. It was staged on the following Tuesday at night.

The opening kickoff in this year's contest is set for 1:30 p. m.

To Work Frostburg Tilt

Officials for the annual Thanksgiving Day game between LaSalle and Beall at Frostburg will be John R. Shelton, John Fox, John Diamond and Roy Manges. This game also is scheduled to get under way at 1:30 p. m.

REPEATS—Walter Hansgen, Westfield, N. J., has won the national championship for Class C modified cars for the second year in a row by finishing second to Allan Connell, Fort Worth, Texas, in the national sports car race Sunday at Daytona International Speedway in Florida. Connell averaged 103 miles an hour in a Ferrari. Hansgen, who won feature races at the Cumberland Muncipal Airport in 1953, 1956, 1958 and 1959, drove a Lister-Jaguar. George Constantine, Southbridge, Mass., who went into the race tied with Hansgen on points, ran into tire trouble and finshed back of the leaders. An accident in which E. D. Martin and Don Sesslar were burned, delayed the race 45 minutes. The race was cut from 40 to 35 laps because of darkness.

Duke Harriers Win, Maryland Second

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Jerry Nourse and Cary Weisiger sparked defending champion Duke ato a resounding victory Monday in the annual four-mile Atlantic Coast Conference cross country championship.

Nourse and Weisiger tied for the individual championship when Nourse waited at the finish line for his teammate to catch up. The time was 20:55.

Favored Maryland was second, 20 points behind the Blue Devils. The team standings showed Duke with 44 points, Maryland 64, North Carolina State 87, North Carolina 107, Virginia 123, Clemson 144 and Wake Forest 163. Low score wins. South Carolina did not have five entries and therefore did not qualify.

Guy Harper, in sixth place, was Maryland's first finisher. Terps Marks Wells and Frank Colavita finished 12th and 13th.

Ruth's Cops Three

New York Legislators Get Off-Track Wagering Bill

Wagner's Measure Has Referendum For City Only

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner's plan to legalize off-track betting was placed before the New York State legislature Monday.

The Wagner legislative program was dropped into the hopper just hours after the pre-filing of bills for the next session of the legislature started Monday.

A program similar to this was introduced in the closing hours of the legislature this year. However it never progressed beyond committee.

A move to force a floor vote failed.

The off-track betting bill was introduced jointly by minority leaders Sen. Joseph Zaretzki, of Manhattan, and Assemblyman Anthony J. Travia of Brooklyn.

The measure would permit New York City to hold a referendum on off-track betting. Limiting it to the city was considered an attempt to offset objections to the bill this year which would have permitted referendums on the issue in other communities as well.

Keyser May Have To Await Outcome Of Holiday Games

Victory On Friday Would Keep Team In Class AA Title Race

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Keyser - Charles Town game Friday is only one part of a series of complicated situations which must be unraveled before the second participant in the West Virginia Class AA high school football championship game is determined.

The "ifs" surrounding the naming of an opponent for Mullens in the post - season clash could cause even the most ardent figure-filbert throw up his hands in resignation.

There's no question about Mullens being the top-rated team and remaining there. But it may take the running of the last scholastic gridiron play in the Cumberland, Md. area on Thanksgiving Day before Mullens finds out who its closest rival is.

Mt. Hope 2nd Now

Mt. Hope is currently the second rated team but it and its opponents have finished play for the year and the final rating for the Mustangs is 11.65. But this may not be enough because:

—If Keyser beats Charles Town and two defeated Keyser opponents Allegany and LaSalle, both of Cumberland—win Thanksgiving Day games, Keyser will have a rating of 11.75, good enough for the playoff berth.

—If Charles Town beats Keyser, it will have a good chance of gaining a playoff berth, but it may depend on a final accounting of records posted by three defeated opponents—two in Virginia and one in Maryland. The state athletic board is attempting to round up the missing results.

Ravenswood captured the Class A crown with a 15-13 win over Winfield last Saturday and Bluefield and Parkersburg clash here Saturday for the Triple-A title.

Bryant Tops Scorers

Bill Bryant, Winfield's ace halfback, locked up state individual scoring honors for the second straight year with one touchdown in the title game. That shoved to 194 his total this season and gave him a 494 point total in four years of play. Last year he won the title with 198 points.

Bob Secret of Clarksburg Washington Irving was second highest scorer with 170 points after getting 13 points in the Hilltoppers' 34-0 rout of Victory last week.

Third and fourth places among the scoring leaders were exchanged from a week ago when Ken Chambers of Lumberport and Ace Lyle of Paden City closed out their seasons. Chambers had 144 points and Lyle 131.

British Heavy Title At Stake In Bout Today

Cooper And Erskine To Clash 6th Time

LONDON (UPI)—Henry Cooper is heavily favored to brush aside Joe Erskine's challenge when they meet Tuesday night for the British and Empire heavyweight titles.

Cooper, the defending champion, then hopes for a shot at Ingemar Johansson's world title.

"We don't want to make any promises," Cooper's manager Jim Wicks told United Press International.

"But Henry will win—and will win very convincingly. Henry is of the same opinion and is in no way worried," said Jim Wicks, Cooper's manager.

"From there our main object is to bring back the world heavyweight title to this wonderful country of ours. Given the opportunity I think Henry can take Johansson," Wicks said.

Erskine, sluggish in training, was given little chance of beating Cooper at Earls Court Stadium.

It will be their sixth meeting. They fought three times as amateurs and twice as pros, Erskine winning both pro scraps.

Bow Hunters Slay 131 Deer In Maryland

Harford County Leads With 24

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland's bow-and-arrow hunters brought down 131 deer in the season which ended Saturday, state game officials said Monday.

The total was 30 below for last season although they had two extra days of shooting and three more counties in which to hunt compared to last year, the season extended from Oct. 12 to Nov. 14 in 22 counties this year.

Harford led the list of kills with a total of 24, compared with 41 for the three-week season last year.

Worcester came next with 18 compared with 21 last year. It was closely trailed by Frederick with 17, Kent with 16, and Dorchester 15.

New counties added to the list this year were Howard, Anne Arundel and Prince Georges which had only one kill each.

Others with comparative 1958 figures shown in parentheses:

Cecil 8 (1), Carroll 6 (2), Baltimore 6 (13), Washington 4 (12), Calvert 3 (1), Garrett 3 (9), Allegany 3 (8), Wicomico 2 (3), Queen Annes 1 (1), Talbot 1 (2), and Somerset 1 (2), and Charles 0 (1).

Caroline and St. Marys counties recorded no kills for the second year in a row.

Continental Loop Will Open In 1961, William Shea Says

NEW YORK (AP) — The Continental League's chairman of the founders' group, William Shea, said Monday the embryo circuit plans to open the 1961 baseball season with eight clubs playing a full 154-game schedule.

The new league currently consists of only five members. Shea said seven qualified cities were seeking membership but did not say when he would be in position to announce the three additions.

"A review of the seven qualified cities seeking membership indicated that the Continental League could complete its eight-club membership immediately," he said, "were it not for the false hope of an American League franchise."

Shea was referring to the announcement last month by American League President Joe Cronin that his circuit was considering expansion in the future.

Kennedy Captures Fifth IC4A Cross Country Title

Crawford Hangs Up Record Of 23:51.8 For Five Mile Test

CRAWFORD KENNEDY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Crawford Kennedy, Michigan State's lanky Canadian whippet, extended three amazing personal, family, and team streaks Monday in smashing the IC 4-A cross-country record with a five-mile clocking of 23 minutes, 51.8 seconds.

It was the fifth straight year the varsity title went to a Kennedy brother, the third straight year for Crawford himself, and the fourth straight year that Michigan State won the team championship.

Kennedy, glazing home 100 yards ahead of Brown's Bobby Lowe, became the first runner in the 51-year history of this hill-and-dale jaunt to break 24 minutes for the trip. His older brother Henry held the existing mark of 24:01 for the course at Van Cortlandt Park.

Henry won the title two straight years before Crawford, now 24, took over family domination of the classic.

Michigan State, placing four runners in the first 14 with the fifth and final scoring team member coming home 25th, easily swept to the team title with 50 to 105 for runner-up Army. Of the Spartans' four straight team titles, it was the second since Fran Dittrich became head coach.

Kennedy, a 24-year - old senior from Toronto, Ont., was assisted in helping the Spartans to the team crown by two other Canadians—Billy Reynolds (sixth) and Edward Graydon (14th)—and two Americans, Gerald Young (ninth) and Bob Lake (25th).

Still another Canadian resident, Gerald Norman of Penn State, won the freshman three-mile run. Norman, a journalism major from Bristol, England, and a teammate of Kennedy on the Toronto Olympic Club, scored by yards over Pete Hoey of Princeton.

Liberty Bowl Berth Offered To Penn State

Philadelphia Game Set For Dec. 19

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Penn State has been offered a berth as the "host" team for the Liberty Bowl football game here on Dec. 19, co-directors of the bowl announced Monday.

In addition, co-directors Bud Dudley and George Kerrigan said that "good reaction" has been received from feelers sent to Georgia, Georgia Tech, Mississippi, Louisiana State, Texas Christian, Arkansas, and the Air Force Academy.

Penn State, currently ranked among the nation's top 10 teams by the UPI Board of Coaches, crushed Holy Cross, 46-0, last Saturday and has a record of eight wins in nine games. The Nittany Lions' lone defeat came at the hands of Syracuse, the nation's No. 1 team, 20-18.

The bowl directors said each team might receive as much as $250,000, including television and radio proceeds.

The Liberty Bowl is one of the post-season football games which has been approved by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Maryland Loses Novak's Services

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland quarterback Dick Novak, who fractured the radius bone of his left arm in last Saturday's game, will miss his team's last two games of the season.

Coach Tom Nugent also announced Monday that Novak's replacement, Duane Fletcher, aggravated an ankle sprain in the Clemson game and may not be ready for this week's contest with Virginia.

That means third-stringer Dale Betty, who threw three touchdown passes in the 28-25 upset of Clemson, may get the starting call against Virginia.

Eddie LeBaron Has Fractured Rib

WASHINGTON (AP)—Quarterback Eddie LeBaron of the Washington Redskins has a fractured rib but may be able to play against the Green Bay Packers Sunday. LeBaron was injured Sunday when the Cleveland Browns won a 31-17 victory over the Redskins. A medical check disclosed the fracture Monday.

VMI Harriers Cop Conference Crown

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Larry Williams and John McDougal paced balanced Virginia Military to its second straight southern conference cross - country championship Monday.

All of 10 VMI runners finished well up among the 53 entries with Williams and McDougal tied for fourth in the meet which is scored on a basis giving the team with the fewest points first place.

VMI registered a team score of 39 to breeze past second place West Virginia with 71. William and Mary was third with 79, Davidson fourth with 96, Furman fifth with 101 and The Citadel seventh with 117.

Virginia Tech's Louis Cascagnola, Virginia state champion, covered the hilly four-mile course at the University of Richmond in 20 minutes 35 seconds to win top individual honors but his team failed to finish enough men to receive a single point. Richmond also was blanked and George Washington did not enter.

Four New Officials To Handle Allegany-Fort Hill Contest

Tony Pizatella Will Referee Thanksgiving

Others Are Garcia, Rentch And Emmart; Tickets Go On Sale

Four new officials will handle the twenty-fourth annual city championship game between the football teams of Allegany High School and Fort Hill High School on Thanksgiving Day (Nov.26), it was announced last night by Ed Schwarz, head coach of the Campers.

The referee will be Tony Pizatella and the umpire will be Tony Garcia. Both are from Fairmont and are graduates of Fairmont State College.

Kenneth Rentch, former Shepherdstown High School coach and now a member of the faculty of South Hagerstown High School, has been named as head linesman.

Virginian Is Named

The field judge will be Carlton Emmart, of Berryville, Va., member of the Valley Football Officials' Association of Winchester. Harold "Zip" Lorenz, former Charles Town High School coach, originally was slated for this job but he was unable to make it on the holiday and Emmart was named in his place.

Pitzatella and Garcia are members of the Monongahela Valley Chapter of the West Virginia Football Officials' Association. Rentch holds membership in the Eastern Panhandle Chapter of the West Virginia Officials' Association.

The names of the four officials were submitted by John R. Shelton, of Keyser, president of the West Virginia Football Officials' Association, and approved by Coaches Ed Schwarz, Allegany, and Charles Lattimer, Fort Hill.

The officials last year were Newton Anderson, of Buckhannon; Art Goldschien, Salem; William Kafer, Glenville College, and Richard Young, Morris Harvey College, Charleston.

Handled 13 Contests

Anderson served as an official at a Turkey Day game here for the 13th consecutive year. Goldschien was here for the sixth successive year and Kafer worked here three years in a row. Young was a newcomer. Fred "Chick" Weihl, of Weston, missed last year's contest after having worked 12 consecutive years.

Tickets for the Allegany-Fort Hill game went on sale yesterday at Campobello. The price of the pasteboards is 75 cents for students and $1.55 for adults. Students may purchase the tickets before or after school hours at the office of the new gymnasium at Allegany. Tickets for adults may be obtained at the main office.

Fort Hill's ticket sale is slated to get under way today at the school, it was announced last night by Victor D. Heisey, principal.

Fort Hill Is Host

Fort Hill will play host at next week's game and students of that school will occupy the concrete stands. The wooden stands on the opposite side of the Greenway Avenue stadium will be occupied by the Allegany students.

The first Fort Hill-Allegany game dates back to 1936 and was staged at Community Park on Wineow Street. Arthur G. Ramey, John McDonald and "Eck" Miers were the officials. The first game at the stadium was held in 1937 with Ramey, McDonald, Art Slocum and "Bid" Schwarzkopf as the officials.

Only one of the twenty-three holiday games held to date was postponed. That was the 1938 tilt which was stopped by a snowstorm. It was staged on the following Tuesday at night.

The opening kickoff in this year's contest is set for 1:30 p. m.

To Work Frostburg Tilt

Officials for the annual Thanksgiving Day game between LaSalle and Beall at Frostburg will be John R. Shelton, John Fox, John Diamond and Roy Manges. This game also is scheduled to get under way at 1:30 p. m.

REPEATS—Walter Hansgen, Westfield, N. J., has won the national championship for Class C modified cars for the second year in a row by finishing second to Allan Connell, Fort Worth, Texas, in the national sports car race Sunday at Daytona International Speedway in Florida. Connell averaged 103 miles an hour in a Ferrari. Hansgen, who won feature races at the Cumberland Muncipal Airport in 1953, 1956, 1958 and 1959, drove a Lister-Jaguar. George Constantine, Southbridge, Mass., who went into the race tied with Hansgen on points, ran into tire trouble and finshed back of the leaders. An accident in which E. D. Martin and Don Sesslar were burned, delayed the race 45 minutes. The race was cut from 40 to 35 laps because of darkness.

Duke Harriers Win, Maryland Second

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Jerry Nourse and Cary Weisiger sparked defending champion Duke ato a resounding victory Monday in the annual four-mile Atlantic Coast Conference cross country championship.

Nourse and Weisiger tied for the individual championship when Nourse waited at the finish line for his teammate to catch up. The time was 20:55.

Favored Maryland was second, 20 points behind the Blue Devils. The team standings showed Duke with 44 points, Maryland 64, North Carolina State 87, North Carolina 107, Virginia 123, Clemson 144 and Wake Forest 163. Low score wins. South Carolina did not have five entries and therefore did not qualify.

Guy Harper, in sixth place, was Maryland's first finisher. Terps Marks Wells and Frank Colavita finished 12th and 13th.

New York Legislators Get Off-Track Wagering Bill

Wagner's Measure Has Referendum For City Only

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner's plan to legalize off-track betting was placed before the New York State legislature Monday.

The Wagner legislative program was dropped into the hopper just hours after the pre-filing of bills for the next session of the legislature started Monday.

A program similar to this was introduced in the closing hours of the legislature this year. However it never progressed beyond committee.

A move to force a floor vote failed.

The off-track betting bill was introduced jointly by minority leaders Sen. Joseph Zaretzki, of Manhattan, and Assemblyman Anthony J. Travia of Brooklyn.

The measure would permit New York City to hold a referendum on off-track betting. Limiting it to the city was considered an attempt to offset objections to the bill this year which would have permitted referendums on the issue in other communities as well.

Keyser May Have To Await Outcome Of Holiday Games

Victory On Friday Would Keep Team In Class AA Title Race

By BILL BARRETT
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Keyser - Charles Town game Friday is only one part of a series of complicated situations which must be unraveled before the second participant in the West Virginia Class AA high school football championship game is determined.

The "ifs" surrounding the naming of an opponent for Mullens in the post - season clash could cause even the most ardent figure-filbert throw up his hands in resignation.

There's no question about Mullens being the top-rated team and remaining there. But it may take the running of the last scholastic gridiron play in the Cumberland, Md. area on Thanksgiving Day before Mullens finds out who its closest rival is.

Mt. Hope 2nd Now

Mt. Hope is currently the second rated team but it and its opponents have finished play for the year and the final rating for the Mustangs is 11.65. But this may not be enough because:

—If Keyser beats Charles Town and two defeated Keyser opponents Allegany and LaSalle, both of Cumberland—win Thanksgiving Day games, Keyser will have a rating of 11.75, good enough for the playoff berth.

—If Charles Town beats Keyser, it will have a good chance of gaining a playoff berth, but it may depend on a final accounting of records posted by three defeated opponents—two in Virginia and one in Maryland. The state athletic board is attempting to round up the missing results.

Ravenswood captured the Class A crown with a 15-13 win over Winfield last Saturday and Bluefield and Parkersburg clash here Saturday for the Triple-A title.

Bryant Tops Scorers

Bill Bryant, Winfield's ace halfback, locked up state individual scoring honors for the second straight year with one touchdown in the title game. That shoved to 194 his total this season and gave him a 494 point total in four years of play. Last year he won the title with 198 points.

Bob Secret of Clarksburg Washington Irving was second highest scorer with 170 points after getting 13 points in the Hilltoppers' 34-0 rout of Victory last week.

Third and fourth places among the scoring leaders were exchanged from a week ago when Ken Chambers of Lumberport and Ace Lyle of Paden City closed out their seasons. Chambers had 144 points and Lyle 131.

British Heavy Title At Stake In Bout Today

Cooper And Erskine To Clash 6th Time

LONDON (UPI)—Henry Cooper is heavily favored to brush aside Joe Erskine's challenge when they meet Tuesday night for the British and Empire heavyweight titles.

Cooper, the defending champion, then hopes for a shot at Ingemar Johansson's world title.

"We don't want to make any promises," Cooper's manager Jim Wicks told United Press International.

"But Henry will win—and will win very convincingly. Henry is of the same opinion and is in no way worried," said Jim Wicks, Cooper's manager.

"From there our main object is to bring back the world heavyweight title to this wonderful country of ours. Given the opportunity I think Henry can take Johansson," Wicks said.

Erskine, sluggish in training, was given little chance of beating Cooper at Earls Court Stadium.

It will be their sixth meeting. They fought three times as amateurs and twice as pros. Erskine winning both pro scraps.

Continental Loop Will Open In 1961, William Shea Says

NEW YORK (AP) — The Continental League's chairman of the founders' group, William Shea, said Monday the embryo circuit plans to open the 1961 baseball season with eight clubs playing a full 154-game schedule.

The new league currently consists of only five members. Shea said seven qualified cities were seeking membership but did not say when he would be in position to announce the three additions.

"A review of the seven qualified cities seeking membership indicated that the Continental League could complete its eight-club membership immediately," he said, "were it not for the false hope of an American League franchise."

Shea was referring to the announcement last month by American League President Joe Cronin that his circuit was considering expansion in the future.

Kennedy Captures Fifth IC4A Cross Country Title

CRAWFORD KENNEDY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Crawford Kennedy, Michigan State's lanky Canadian whippet, extended three amazing personal, family, and team streaks Monday in smashing the IC 4-A cross-country record with a five-mile clocking of 23 minutes, 51.8 seconds.

It was the fifth straight year the varsity title went to a Kennedy brother, the third straight year for Crawford himself, and the fourth straight year that Michigan State won the team championship.

Kennedy, glazing home 100 yards ahead of Brown's Bobby Lowe, became the first runner in the 51-year history of this hill-and-dale jaunt to break 24 minutes for the trip. His older brother Henry held the existing mark of 24:01 for the course at Van Cortlandt Park.

Henry won the title two straight years before Crawford, now 24, took over family domination of the classic.

Michigan State, placing four runners in the first 14 with the fifth and final scoring team member coming home 25th, easily swept to the team title with 50 to 105 for runner-up Army. Of the Spartans' four straight team titles, it was the second since Fran Dittrich became head coach.

Kennedy, a 24-year - old senior from Toronto, Ont., was assisted in helping the Spartans to the team crown by two other Canadians—Billy Reynolds (sixth) and Edward Graydon (14th)—and two Americans, Gerald Young (ninth) and Bob Lake (25th).

Still another Canadian resident, Gerald Norman of Penn State, won the freshman three-mile run. Norman, a journalism major from Bristol, England, and a teammate of Kennedy on the Toronto Olympic Club, scored by yards over Pete Hoey of Princeton.

Liberty Bowl Berth Offered To Penn State

Philadelphia Game Set For Dec. 19

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Penn State has been offered a berth as the "host" team for the Liberty Bowl football game here on Dec. 19, co-directors of the bowl announced Monday.

In addition, co-directors Bud Dudley and George Kerrigan said that "good reaction" has been received from feelers sent to Georgia, Georgia Tech, Mississippi, Louisiana State, Texas Christian, Arkansas, and the Air Force Academy.

Penn State, currently ranked among the nation's top 10 teams by the UPI Board of Coaches, crushed Holy Cross, 46-0, last Saturday and has a record of eight wins in nine games. The Nittany Lions' lone defeat came at the hands of Syracuse, the nation's No. 1 team, 20-18.

The bowl directors said each team might receive as much as $250,000, including television and radio proceeds.

The Liberty Bowl is one of the post-season football games which has been approved by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Maryland Loses Novak's Services

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland quarterback Dick Novak, who fractured the radius bone of his left arm in last Saturday's game, will miss his team's last two games of the season.

Coach Tom Nugent also announced Monday that Novak's replacement, Duane Fletcher, aggravated an ankle sprain in the Clemson game and may not be ready for this week's contest with Virginia.

That means third-stringer Dale Betty, who threw three touchdown passes in the 28-25 upset of Clemson, may get the starting call against Virginia.

Eddie LeBaron Has Fractured Rib

WASHINGTON (AP)—Quarterback Eddie LeBaron of the Washington Redskins has a fractured rib but may be able to play against the Green Bay Packers Sunday. LeBaron was injured Sunday when the Cleveland Browns won a 31-17 victory over the Redskins. A medical check disclosed the fracture Monday.

VMI Harriers Cop Conference Crown

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Larry Williams and John McDougal paced balanced Virginia Military to its second straight southern conference cross - country championship Monday.

All of 10 VMI runners finished well up among the 53 entries with Williams and McDougal tied for fourth in the meet which is scored on a basis giving the team with the fewest points first place.

VMI registered a team score of 39 to breeze past second place West Virginia with 71. William and Mary was third with 79, Davidson fourth with 96, Furman fifth with 101 and The Citadel seventh with 117.

Virginia Tech's Louis Cascagnola, Virginia state champion, covered the hilly four-mile course at the University of Richmond in 20 minutes 35 seconds to win top individual honors but his team failed to finish enough men to receive a single point. Richmond also was blanked and George Washington did not enter.

Mississippi Takes Over Second Place In AP Grid Poll

Georgia Goes From Twelfth To Sixth Spot

Syracuse Retains Lead; Texas Slips To 5th Position

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The strong Syracuse team that romped over helpless Colgate 71-0 again leads the nation as the No. 1 college football team in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Syracuse ended Louisiana State's 14-week reign on top of the heap last week, just barely nosing out Texas in the point table. With the defeat of Texas by Texas Christian, a new challenger arose in Mississippi.

There is a wide gap between Syracuse with 126 first-place votes and 2,145 points to second-place Mississippi with 68 firsts and 1,859 points. Syracuse, now 8-0, has two more regular season games to play—Boston U. and UCLA—before meeting the Southwest Conference representative in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

253 Cast Ballots

A total of 253 sports writers and sportcasters voted in the poll. Each votes for 10 teams. Ten points are awarded for a first-place ballot, nine for second and so on down to one for No. 10.

Texas slipped to fifth place after Texas Christian knocked it from the ranks of the unbeaten 14-9. The victory boosted TCU from 18th to 10th despite two defeats.

Mississippi drew solid support for the workmanlike job it did while walloping Tennessee 37-7. Ole Miss' only defeat came at the hands of LSU 7-3. Then LSU lost to Tennessee.

Although Southern California won its eighth straight, 17-8 over Baylor, and rated with Syracuse as the only unbeaten major teams in the nation, it could not better last week's fourth-place finish in the voting. LSU clung to third on its 27-0 triumph over Mississippi State.

Georgia Jumps To 6th

Georgia made a striking advance from 12th to sixth on its 14-13 victory over Auburn.

Penn State moved up to the No. 7 slot on its impressive 46-0 romp over Holy Cross, a team that lost only once previously.

Although Northwestern bowed to Michigan State and Wisconsin lost to Illinois on the last play of the game, they remained among the top 10. Northwestern dipped two to eighth and Wisconsin fell two rungs to ninth.

Texas Christian (No. 10), Georgia (No. 6), Michigan State (No. 11) and Arkansas (No. 13) made the strongest advances on Saturday's play.

The top 10 with points based on 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc. (First-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

1. Syracuse	(126) (8-0)	2,145
2. Mississippi	(68) (8-1)	1,859
3. Louisiana St.	(16) (8-1)	1,721
4. Southern Calif.	(16) (8-0)	1,627
5. Texas	(1) (8-1)	1,090
6. Georgia	(6) (8-1)	1,009
7. Penn State	(6) (8-1)	869
8. Northwestern	(1) (6-2)	411
9. Wisconsin	(6-2)	383
10. Texas Christian	(6-2)	314

Pied D'Or Is Futurity Prep Victor

Calumet Juveniles Run 1-2 At Pimlico

BALTIMORE, Nov. 16 (AP)—Pied D'or, son of Nasrullah and half-brother of Tim Tam, won the $4,000 Futurity Prep at Pimlico today in a final tune-up for Saturday's $50,000-added Pimlico Futurity.

The winner galloped home a half-length ahead of his Calumet Farm stablemate, Keenation, in the mile and a sixteenth race.

The crowd of 9,202, which wagered $832,580 on the nine-race program, sent the Jimmy Jones-trained juveniles off favored at 3-2. Pied D'Or paid $3.00, $2.40 and $2.20, while Keenation returned $2.40 and $2.20.

Pied D'or, ridden by Chris Rogers, took the lead from Persian Spy leaving the turn and won easily in 1:45 3/5 over a fast track. Keenation made up late ground effortlessly under Steve Brooks. Powhatan's Billy Bluejay finished third, three lengths behind Keenation, and paid $2.20.

Brooks and Howard Grant, the meet's leading rider shared the daily double honors. Brooks took the six-furlong first race with Donald McGee's My Kind (No. 7), paying $13.20, and Grant was up on Cabein Stable's Arrowette (No. 10) and paid $7. The double paid $54.60.

Grant came back to win the eighth race with Navy Brass.

Syracuse Tops Lambert Trophy Vote 5th Week

Penn State Second And Pitt Is Third

NEW YORK (UPI)—Syracuse was the unanimous choice for first in the Lambert Trophy balloting Monday for the fifth straight week. The winner of the final voting at the end of the season gets the trophy, symbol of the eastern major college football championship.

Syracuse, a 71-0 winner over Colgate last Saturday, was picked No. 1 by each of the eight coaches, sports writers and broadcasters on the Lambert selection board. This gave Syracuse the maximum possible total of 10 points. Penn State, beaten only by Syracuse was second with 9.0 points.

Pittsburgh was third with 7.5, Army fourth with 7.4 and Navy fifth with 5.0. Pennsylvania was sixth with 4.3 points, Boston University seventh with 3.6 and Holy Cross eighth with 3.3. Boston College and Dartmouth tied for ninth with 1.8 each.

Mississippi Takes Over Second Place In AP Grid Poll

Georgia Goes From Twelfth To Sixth Spot

Syracuse Retains Lead; Texas Slips To 5th Position

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The strong Syracuse team that romped over helpless Colgate 71-0 again leads the nation as the No. 1 college football team in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Syracuse ended Louisiana State's 14-week reign on top of the heap last week, just barely nosing out Texas in the point table. With the defeat of Texas by Texas Christian, a new challenger arose in Mississippi.

There is a wide gap between Syracuse with 126 first-place votes and 2,145 points to second-place Mississippi with 68 firsts and 1,859 points. Syracuse, now 8-0, has two more regular season games to play—Boston U. and UCLA—before meeting the Southwest Conference representative in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

253 Cast Ballots

A total of 253 sports writers and sportcasters voted in the poll. Each votes for 10 teams. Ten points are awarded for a first-place ballot, nine for second and so on down to one for No. 10.

Texas slipped to fifth place after Texas Christian knocked it from the ranks of the unbeaten 14-9. The victory boosted TCU from 18th to 10th despite two defeats.

Mississippi drew solid support for the workmanlike job it did while walloping Tennessee 37-7. Ole Miss' only defeat came at the hands of LSU 7-3. Then LSU lost to Tennessee.

Although Southern California won its eighth straight, 17-8 over Baylor, and rated with Syracuse as the only unbeaten major teams in the nation, it could not better last week's fourth-place finish in the voting. LSU clung to third on its 27-0 triumph over Mississippi State.

Georgia Jumps To 6th

Georgia made a striking advance from 12th to sixth on its 14-13 victory over Auburn.

Penn State moved up to the No. 7 slot on its impressive 46-0 romp over Holy Cross, a team that lost only once previously.

Although Northwestern bowed to Michigan State and Wisconsin lost to Illinois on the last play of the game, they remained among the top 10. Northwestern dipped two to eighth and Wisconsin fell two rungs to ninth.

Texas Christian (No. 10), Georgia (No. 6), Michigan State (No. 11) and Arkansas (No. 13) made the strongest advances on Saturday's play.

The top 10 with points based on 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc. (First-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

1.	Syracuse (126)	(8-0)	2,145
2.	Mississippi (68)	(8-1)	1,859
3.	Louisiana St. (16)	(8-1)	1,721
4.	Southern Calif. (16)	(8-0)	1,627
5.	Texas (1)	(8-1)	1,090
6.	Georgia (6)	(8-1)	1,009
7.	Penn State (6)	(8-1)	869
8.	Northwestern (1)	(6-2)	411
9.	Wisconsin (6-2)		383
10.	Texas Christian (6-2)		314

The winner galloped home a half-length ahead of his Calumet Farm stablemate, Keenation, in the mile and a sixteenth race.

The crowd of 9,202, which wagered $832,580 on the nine-race program, sent the Jimmy Jones-trained juveniles off favored at 3-2. Pied D'Or paid $3.00, $2.40 and $2.20, while Keenation returned $2.40 and $2.20.

Pied D'or, ridden by Chris Rogers, took the lead from Persian Spy leaving the turn and won easily in 1:45 3/5 over a fast track. Keenation made up late ground effortlessly under Steve Brooks. Powhatan's Billy Bluejay finished third, three lengths behind Keenation, and paid $2.20.

Brooks and Howard Grant, the meet's leading rider shared the daily double honors. Brooks took the six-furlong first race with Donald McGee's My Kind (No. 7), paying $13.20, and Grant was up on Cabein Stable's Arrowette (No. 10) and paid $7. The double paid $54.60.

West Virginia Extends Bear Hunting Season

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Conservation Commission has extended the 1959 bear hunting season in West Virginia through Thanksgiving Day because of continued damage to sheep herds in parts of the state.

The commission also clarified other regulations pertaining to the gun season on deer.

It said hunters may kill small game during the six-day bucks-only season Nov. 30-Dec. 5 in Braxton, Calhoun, Clay, Jackson, Jefferson, Mason, Roane, Tucker, Wirt and parts of Grant, Kanawha, Nicholas and Putnam Counties.

Pitcher Vernon Law had his best professional year in '59, with an 18-9 mark, and if he can come up with another 18 wins in '60, he'll hit 100 major league triumphs. His lifetime log is now 82 and 86 losses.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm so ashamed that I must get help from someone who doesn't know us. We've been married 13 years and have four wonderful kids. I just learned I'm pregnant again and my husband is burned up.

He says we can't afford another child and we must give the new baby to an agency that will pay the hospital bill.

I'm not thrilled about the new baby but I couldn't bear to give it away. This seems animal-like. My husband has already asked a few relatives and friends if they "want a baby." They look at him as if he's crazy. No one takes him seriously.

Our children are healthy, well behaved and good in school. They never give us trouble. He says "Four is enough for anybody." Please help me. I'm getting very nervous over this..— Z Y X

DEAR Z Y X: Tell Clatter-trap to shut his mouth because he's making himself look ridiculous. Make it plain you have no intention of giving up the baby and that the issue is closed. closed.

He'll feed and clothe the fifth child just as he did the fourth, and in a year he'll wonder how he ever thought of doing anything else.

DEAR ANN: I'm a high school sophomore who has been dating a swell guy for three months. You might say we are going steady.

My 16th birthday was last week and he didn't give me a gift. He phoned and sang happy birthday. I had hoped he'd give me an I. D. bracelet or something personal. I felt hurt and cried half the night.

My mother says he's inconsiderate and I shouldn't waste any more time on him. Dad says we place too much importance on gifts, and to forget it. What do you say?—DAMP EYES

DEAR DAMP EYS: I'm with Dad.

DEAR ANN: I suppose I'm to blame, but I need advice.

Our 16-year-old daughter is popular, full of the dickens and has lots of friends, both boys and girls. She discovered the telephone at 13 and by the time she was 15 no one could get our line after 4 p. m. We decided last December to give her a private telephone for Christmas.

Her grades are just fair because she doesn't "have time to study and keep up with her homework." Yet she's on the phone for hours every night. Last night she talked and giggled on that darn phone 'til past midnight. This morning I had to pull her out of bed to go to school. What shall I do now?

—QUANDRYITE

DEAR QUANDRYITE: Phones can be removed as well as installed. It's done every day.

Tell Madame Yak she must abide by a few rules or lose the phone altogether.

(1) No call should last more than 20 minutes. Anything not mentioned within 20 minutes can't be very important.

(2) There should be no talking on the phone after 11 p. m. If the phone rings after that hour she must tell the party she can't talk and will return the call tomorrow.

(3) Trust her to keep a record of her phone time. Tell her it cannot exceed a total of one hour or out it goes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three months ago my husband surprised me with a lovely fur cape for my birthday. I thought it was all paid for. Yesterday a nasty man from a finance company came to see me. My husband owes $130 on the fur cape.

We haven't got the money, and I don't know where we can get it within 15 days, which is the limit.

The man got snippy and we argued a good bit. I told him the fur had been worn, and he couldn't get blood out of a turnip.

What can the finance company do?—BURNT.

DEAR BURNT: They could take the turnip, if your husband signed what I think he signed.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped enevlope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — With William Holden and Debbie Reynolds tied up for movies for William Perlberg and George Seaton, it is only natural that Perlberg - Seaton are looking ahead for good stories for this box office pair. One story the busy team bought is "Night Without End," an adventure novel which Doubleday is bringing out in a short time. It will also be serialized in one of the big magazines.

An old friend, Jim Denton, who left 20th Century-Fox after 20 years to go to Paramount to work for Perlberg-Seaton, gives me "Night Without End" as his first story as publicity director. Eric Ambler, noted British writer, has been engaged to do the scripting, and this will be a late spring production.

Debbie is now doing "Rat Race," and then "Pleasure of His Company," while Holden is all signed, sealed and delivered for "Counterfeit Traitor."

That droll and witty Joey Bishop not only fractured the 1,300 guests at the Friar's banquet — but he handed Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra so many laughs they have signed him for their gambling - robbery thriller, "Oceans 11." It hasn't yet been decided whether Joey will be funny—or dramatic in this. He can do "drammer" very effectively as those of you who saw him on David Janssen's "Richard Diamond" TV show can attest. Without a laugh-line to his name, Joey grippingly played a nightclub star who murders his ex-wife and her flame.

Before starting "Oceans 11" in January, Joey first does another of his hilarious nightclub turns opening at the Cloister in Hollywood on Nov. 19.

When I watched Dick Shawn entertaining at Mervyn Leroy's party (I had previously caught his act in Las Vegas) I knew this boy had what it takes for stardom. Sure enough, when Dick completes Mervyn's "Wake Me When It's Over," he goes to MGM to star in "Chatauqua." Bill Bowers has completed the script from Day Keene's novel.

Somebody asked me about a Chatauqua—and boy, could I tell them! I not only used to go every night while the Chatauquas played Dixon, Ill., my hometown —but on one occasion I appeared on the program. For many years, Chatauquas were about the only exciting entertainment to play small towns.

The warm scenes between champ Archie Moore and little Eddie Hodges in "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" have given director Mike Curtiz a whale of an idea. Knowing that MGM owns "The Champ," that classic tearjerker made originally by Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in 1931. Mike has approached Sol Siegel about remaking it with Archie and Eddie.

"The fact that Archie is a Negro champion seems to me would add to the drama of the down-and-out fighter who is rehabilitated through the love of a small boy," says Mike. I'm not in the least surprised that Archie is turning in a good acting performance in his first movie. The old boy has always turned on the emotion in his TV speeches after each winning fight.

An airmailed note from Ginger Rogers from Detroit where she is appearing on the stage in "Pink Jungle" does much to clear up those rumors that she and Agnes Moorhead aren't hitting it off:

"Our show needs work (as do 99 per cent of shows that try out) but as far as I am concerned no work is needed on the friendship of Moorhead and Rogers. My admiration and appreciation for Aggie's talent shall always exist. We have had nothing but the nicest of relationships since we started this 'Pink Jungle' jaunt."

Avoid Unflattering Poses

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Models learn how to take graceful poses unconsciously—and so can you.

In snapshots, arms and legs can be caught in the most unflattering positions. This is true no matter how beautiful they are, so part of a model's business is to learn to avoid all unlovely poses, and to do it without self-consciousness. You can learn and be at ease about it, too.

Remember those head-on views in the snapshots, how awkwardly the arms dangled? That was because they felt useless and uncomfortable. When you stand quietly, try the model trick of placing your arms slightly behind your back, or the way they clasp one hand lightly with the other, either in back or in front. This is indeed a good thing to remember if you're thrust into the limelight before an audience. You won't wonder what to do with your hands, or look as if you didn't know.

You may have noticed that the arms of some of the snapped bathing beauties looked much heavier than they are. Models never flatten their arms to their sides, which is the reason for those upper arm bulges. Hold your arms slightly away from your body as they do, standing, walking or sitting. Bent elbows always help the arms to look more graceful, too. Keep them bent even when you lean on your arms, to describe a curve — never brace yourself so elbows almost look bent backward.

Sprawling is out at any time, for obvious reasons, but watch it to make sure your legs don't flatten against a chair when you sit erect in a ladylike pose. Sit slightly forward on the chair so your knees and calves don't press against the seat front or chair legs. Cross your legs only at the ankles, never higher, which also flattens their shape. Turn very slightly from the hips as you sit, to give the best view of your legs and grace to your whole figure.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's advice for you!
A couple of weeks ago, Ann, your column featured this letter from "Chicago Pop" with your reply:
* * * * *
Dear Ann: If more people would cut their kids' hair at home, maybe we could get the barber prices down where they belong.
I'm the father of three young sons. We live in Chicago. Every other Saturday the four of us go for haircuts. It costs $1.75 for each boy. Mine is $2. I'm almost completely bald. The barber usually gets me out of his chair in 9 minutes.
My 7- and 8-year-olds have crew cuts. Last week I timed them. They were out of the chair in 13 and 15 minutes each. The 5-year-old takes 15 minutes. The barber gets $7.25.
We take a bus both ways. This little excursion chews a $10 bill to pieces. Maybe if you hear from a whole slew of outraged fathers who are tired of getting clipped, we can get the price of haircuts down to where they make sense. —CHICAGO POP
Dear Chicago Pop: I've already heard from a slew of outraged fathers. I'm willing to print a solution to this problem if someone will come up with one.
* * * * *
A solution to the problem, Ann? A Supreme Electric Home Haircutter! If "Chicago Pop" can comb his sons' hair, he can give them perfect haircuts at home with a Supreme the very first time in just about 15 minutes. And we mean perfect. Professional-looking trim at side and back—even neat crew cuts—and all with no "bowl head" look.
What's more, if "Chicago Pop" spends $10 every two weeks for haircuts, that adds up to $260 a year. The Supreme Home Haircutting Kit shown here—complete with precision electric clipper, 4 attachment guides, an apron, comb, shears, instruction chart and barber's brush—the entire kit retails for just $14.95. That's a saving of over $200 a year. (That'll buy a lot of shoes, baseball bats, and ice cream cones for 3 boys.)
"Chicago Pop" and that whole "slew of outraged fathers" owe it to themselves to see and try the Supreme Electric Hair Clipper now. On sale at Drug, Department and Hardware Stores. Good advice, Ann?

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm so ashamed that I must get help from someone who doesn't know us. We've been married 13 years and have four wonderful kids. I just learned I'm pregnant again and my husband is burned up.

He says we can't afford another child and we must give the new baby to an agency that will pay the hospital bill.

I'm not thrilled about the new baby but I couldn't bear to give it away. This seems animal-like. My husband has already asked a few relatives and friends if they "want a baby." They look at him as if he's crazy. No one takes him seriously.

Our children are healthy, well behaved and good in school. They never give us trouble. He says "Four is enough for anybody." Please help me. I'm getting very nervous over this.— Z Y X

DEAR Z Y X: Tell Clattertrap to shut his mouth because he's making himself look ridiculous. Make it plain you have no intention of giving up the baby and that the issue is closed. closed.

He'll feed and clothe the fifth child just as he did the fourth, and in a year he'll wonder how he ever thought of doing anything else.

DEAR ANN: I'm a high school sophomore who has been dating a swell guy for three months. You might say we are going steady.

My 16th birthday was last week and he didn't give me a gift. He phoned and sang happy birthday. I had hoped he'd give me an I. D. bracelet or something personal. I felt hurt and cried half the night.

My mother says he's inconsiderate and I shouldn't waste any more time on him. Dad says we place too much importance on gifts, and to forget it. What do you say?—DAMP EYES

DEAR DAMP EYS: I'm with Dad.

DEAR ANN: I suppose I'm to blame, but I need advice.

Our 16-year-old daughter is popular, full of the dickens and has lots of friends, both boys and girls. She discovered the telephone at 13 and by the time she was 15 no one could get our line after 4 p. m. We decided last December to give her a private telephone for Christmas.

Her grades are just fair because she doesn't "have time to study and keep up with her homework." Yet she's on the phone for hours every night. Last night she talked and giggled on that darn phone 'til past midnight. This morning I had to pull her out of bed to go to school. What shall I do now?

—QUANDRYITE

DEAR QUANDRYITE: Phones can be removed as well as installed. It's done every day.

Tell Madame Yak she must abide by a few rules or lose the phone altogether.

(1) No call should last more than 20 minutes. Anything not mentioned within 20 minutes can't be very important.

(2) There should be no talking on the phone after 11 p. m. If the phone rings after that hour she must tell the party she can't talk and will return the call tomorrow.

(3) Trust her to keep a record of her phone time. Tell her it cannot exceed a total of one hour or out it goes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three months ago my husband surprised me with a lovely fur cape for my birthday. I thought it was all paid for. Yesterday a nasty man from a finance company came to see me. My husband owes $130 on the fur cape.

We haven't got the money, and I don't know where we can get it within 15 days, which is the limit.

The man got snippy and we argued a good bit. I told him the fur had been worn, and he couldn't get blood out of a turnip.

What can the finance company do?—BURNT.

DEAR BURNT: They could take the turnip, if your husband signed what I think he signed.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — With William Holden and Debbie Reynolds tied up for movies for William Perlberg and George Seaton, it is only natural that Perlberg - Seaton are looking ahead for good stories for this box office pair. One story the busy team bought is "Night Without End," an adventure novel which Doubleday is bringing out in a short time. It will also be serialized in one of the big magazines.

An old friend, Jim Denton, who left 20th Century-Fox after 20 years to go to Paramount to work for Perlberg-Seaton, gives me "Night Without End" as his first story as publicity director. Eric Ambler, noted British writer, has been engaged to do the scripting, and this will be a late spring production.

Debbie is now doing "Rat Race," and then "Pleasure of His Company," while Holden is all signed, sealed and delivered for "Counterfeit Traitor."

That droll and witty Joey Bishop not only fractured the 1,300 guests at the Friar's banquet — but he handed Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra so many laughs they have signed him for their gambling - robbery thriller, "Oceans 11." It hasn't yet been decided whether Joey will be funny—or dramatic in this. He can do "drammer" very effectively as those of you who saw him on David Janssen's "Richard Diamond" TV show can attest. Without a laugh-line to his name, Joey grippingly played a nightclub star who murders his ex-wife and her flame.

Before starting "Oceans 11" in January, Joey first does another of his hilarious nightclub turns opening at the Cloister in Hollywood on Nov. 19.

When I watched Dick Shawn entertaining at Mervyn Leroy's party (I had previously caught his act in Las Vegas) I knew this boy had what it takes for stardom. Sure enough, when Dick completes Mervyn's "Wake Me When It's Over," he goes to MGM to star in "Chatauqua." Bill Bowers has completed the script from Day Keene's novel.

Somebody asked me about a Chatauqua—and boy, could I tell them! I not only used to go every night while the Chatauquas played Dixon, Ill., my hometown —but on one occasion I appeared on the program. For many years, Chatauquas were about the only exciting entertainment to play small towns.

The warm scenes between champ Archie Moore and little Eddie Hodges in "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" have given director Mike Curtiz a whale of an idea. Knowing that MGM owns "The Champ," that classic tearjerker made originally by Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in 1931. Mike has approached Sol Siegel about remaking it with Archie and Eddie.

"The fact that Archie is a Negro champion seems to me would add to the drama of the down-and-out fighter who is rehabilitated through the love of a small boy," says Mike. I'm not in the least surprised that Archie is turning in a good acting performance in his first movie. The old boy has always turned on the emotion in his TV speeches after each winning fight.

An airmailed note from Ginger Rogers from Detroit where she is appearing on the stage in "Pink Jungle" does much to clear up those rumors that she and Agnes Moorhead aren't hitting it off:

"Our show needs work (as do 99 per cent of shows that try out) but as far as I am concerned no work is needed on the friendship of Moorhead and Rogers. My admiration and appreciation for Aggie's talent shall always exist. We have had nothing but the nicest of relationships since we started this 'Pink Jungle' jaunt."

Avoid Unflattering Poses

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Models learn how to take graceful poses unconsciously—and so can you.

In snapshots, arms and legs can be caught in the most unflattering positions. This is true no matter how beautiful they are, so part of a model's business is to learn to avoid all unlovely poses, and to do it without self-consciousness. You can learn and be at ease about it, too.

Remember those head-on views in the snapshots, how awkwardly the arms dangled? That was because they felt useless and uncomfortable. When you stand quietly, try the model trick of placing your arms slightly behind your back, or the way they clasp one hand lightly with the other, either in back or in front. This is indeed a good thing to remember if you're thrust into the limelight before an audience. You won't wonder what to do with your hands, or look as if you didn't know.

You may have noticed that the arms of some of the snapped bathing beauties looked much heavier than they are. Models never flatten their arms to their sides, which is the reason for those upper arm bulges. Hold your arms slightly away from your body as they do, standing, walking or sitting. Bent elbows always help the arms to look more graceful, too. Keep them bent even when you lean on your arms, to describe a curve — never brace yourself so elbows almost look bent backward.

Sprawling is out at any time, for obvious reasons, but watch it to make sure your legs don't flatten against a chair when you sit erect in a ladylike pose. Sit slightly forward on the chair so your knees and calves don't press against the seat front or chair legs. Cross your legs only at the ankles, never higher, which also flattens their shape. Turn very slightly from the hips as you sit, to give the best view of your legs and grace to your whole figure.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's advice for you!
A couple of weeks ago, Ann, your column featured this letter from "Chicago Pop" with your reply:
* * * * *
Dear Ann: If more people would cut their kids' hair at home, maybe we could get the barber prices down where they belong.
I'm the father of three young sons. We live in Chicago. Every other Saturday the four of us go for haircuts. It costs $1.75 for each boy. Mine is $2. I'm almost completely bald. The barber usually gets me out of his chair in 9 minutes.
My 7- and 8-year-olds have crew cuts. Last week I timed them. They were out of the chair in 13 and 15 minutes each. The 5-year-old takes 15 minutes. The barber gets $7.25.
We take a bus both ways. This little excursion chews a $10 bill to pieces. Maybe if you hear from a whole slew of outraged fathers who are tired of getting clipped, we can get the price of haircuts down to where they make sense. —CHICAGO POP
Dear Chicago Pop: I've already heard from a slew of outraged fathers. I'm willing to print a solution to this problem if someone will come up with one.
* * * * *
A solution to the problem, Ann? A Supreme Electric Home Haircutter! If "Chicago Pop" can comb his sons' hair, he can give them perfect haircuts at home with a Supreme the very first time in just about 15 minutes. And we mean perfect. Professional-looking trim at side and back—even neat crew cuts—and all with no "bowl head" look.
What's more, if "Chicago Pop" spends $10 every two weeks for haircuts, that adds up to $260 a year. The Supreme Home Haircutting Kit shown here—complete with precision electric clipper, 4 attachment guides, an apron, comb, shears, instruction chart and barber's brush—the entire kit retails for just $14.95. That's a saving of over $200 a year. (That'll buy a lot of shoes, baseball bats, and ice cream cones for 3 boys.)
"Chicago Pop" and that whole "slew of outraged fathers" owe it to themselves to see and try the Supreme Electric Hair Clipper now. On sale at Drug, Department and Hardware Stores. Good advice, Ann?

East	South	West	North

Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

Had West employed a simple bit of precaution in defending today's doubled contract, his side would have saved a substantial number of points.

Although North's continuation to five hearts was totally unjustified, there can be little doubt as to the soundness of West's double of the final contract. He held two aces, and partner had bid freely. East, therefore, should be able to obtain the lead at least once to give West a ruff, which would beat the hand two tricks.

West led the ten of spades which rode around to declarer's queen, and he returned a trump. With the intent of a greyhound in pursuit of the rabbit, West hopped up with the ace, then underled the ace of diamonds.

South gratefully won the trick with his bare king, ruffed out his losing clubs and drew trumps. He had only to concede a trick in spades to make five hearts doubled.

If West hadn't been in such a blind hurry, he could have defended with complete assurance. It was the height of futility to hope for two spade ruffs. To start with, East couldn't be expected to have two quick entries, for the ace of clubs should be assigned to South to justify his bidding. West should, therefore, have been satisfied with only one ruff, and if East had the king of diamonds, there was no hurry.

East, knowing that partner has led a singleton, will surely signal as to the method of reaching his hand, and West should permit him to speak his little piece. If he ducks the first heart lead, East will surely show out on the second round, and a message will come through.

East will make the eloquent discard of the diamond four, denying the possession of the king of diamonds. It wouldn't matter now if West cashed the ace of diamonds, or shifted to a club. The defense would sooner or later get their three natural tricks — a trump, a diamond, and a spade.

Grand Jury Renews Fund Shortage Probe

SALISBURY (AP)—The Wicomico County Grand Jury reconvened in special session Monday and heard a new charge from Circuit Judge Rex A. Taylor on its investigation of a money shortage in the county liquor store accounts.

Taylor spent much of the session pointing out the duties of the liquor board and emphasized that these duties would be violated by the board's withholding of any information about the shortage.

The investigation was begun last summer after the newly elected county commissioners reportedly discovered shortages totaling about $32,000 in the accounts of the outgoing board. The shortage was said to have developed over a seven-year period.

Long's Fate To Be Decided December 5

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —The saga of Earl K. Long, only governor in history to wield his power from behind the bars of a mental hospital, reaches a climax on Dec. 5.

On that day, the voters of Louisiana will decide what to do with Ol' Uncle Earl—whether to place their confidence in him again or banish him to his pea patch.

He is one of five candidates running for lieutenant governor. Many political observers don't think he will make it.

Long wanted to be governor again but the law prohibits a governor from succeeding himself. He settled for the No. 2 spot, and picked an odd buddy, former governor James Noe, as his candidate for No. 1.

10 Seek Governorship

There are nine others seeking the governorship, so if Long wins there is a good chance he will serve with a political enemy above him. If this happens, Louisiana can expect another political circus.

Noe is not a front-running candidate. Although he was a bosom buddy of Huey Long, Earl's brother who was assassinated nearly 25 years ago, he has dropped from the public eye in recent years.

It is unlikely that both Long and Noe will win, according to the experts. They see more of a chance that Long will win by himself.

The governor in that case would probably be afraid to leave the state, with Long ready to take over as acting governor in his absence. And Long would wield great power as president of the state senate.

"Look At Me"

For the past few months Long has been vigorously stumping the state, asking people to "look me in the eye and see for yourself if I'm nuts."

"If I'm nuts now I've been nuts all my life," he rasps.

He has made a special pitch toward women voters, but any success there might be cancelled out by the fact that he is divorcing his wife Blanche and by his widely reported capers with a red-haired stripper named Blaze Starr.

Meanwhile, segregationist candidates have made hay over the fact that Long caters toward the Negro population and draws a large vote from that quarter.

Another reason given by the experts in predicting defeat for Long is his position on the ticket. When his supporters don't find him at the top of the ticket, according to these experts, many them may become confused, vote for some gubernatorial candidate other than Noe and then cast their ballot for that man's running mate instead of Ol' Earl.

Long is 64 and his health isn't good, even though it is better than it was a few months ago. He has heart trouble that first showed up when he suffered a seizure while chasing a hog up a hill on his farm in 1950. However, he has shown amazing stamina.

Hit-And-Run Victim Is Found

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) — A Mt. Pleasant man was found dead on U.S. 340 near here Sunday night and police said he apparently was a victim of a hit-and-run automobile accident.

Identified as John Benjamin Price, 49, he was found on the highway by a passing motorist. Police said he had suffered multiple fractures and he had been dead for an hour.

Educator Dies Of Heart Attack

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Kanawha County educator W. C. (Doc) Noyes of nearby Dunbar died in a hospital here Monday a few hours after suffering a heart attack at his home. He was 52.

Principal at Dunbar Junior High School, Noyes was well-known in southern West Virginia as an official in scholastic athletic contests. He was a graduate of Marshall College.

San Francisco Going Modern — Painfully

By JOHN BARNETT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city of San Francisco is going modern — and nothing could be more painful to this tradition-loving metropolis by the Golden Gate.

Freeways, slum clearance, shiny new multi-million-dollar buildings are changing the landscape that San Franciscans love.

An expressway throws a shadow over the waterfront, or Embarcadero as it is called, which will be completely revamped within a few years.

Neighborhoods that date back to, and in some cases prior to, the 1906 earthquake and fire are getting a completely brand new look.

The bus has all but replaced the cable car, and the trans-bay ferry is only a memory.

But San Francisco is a culture-conscious city and a sentimental one. It's willing to accept new ideas—but not at the expense of old ones.

Uphill Fight

That's why each step toward modernization has been a struggle as uphill as any of the city's steepest streets. The fight for—and against—freeways is an example.

San Francisco, like nearly all of California, is strangling on automobile traffic. One and a third million motor trips are started or ended in the city every day.

Hence, when the state legislature developed a master highway and expressway plan for the state this year, San Francisco got a bear-sized share of freeway allocations.

But its board of supervisors astounded the legislators by rejecting part of the state funds, completely erasing six proposed freeway routes through the city.

The city has already received 13½ miles of freeways, either built or planned, worth 127 million dollars. Under the legislature's plan, another 26½ miles are to be constructed—but won't be until a satisfactory program is developed.

Problem Of Esthetics

The problem is one of esthetics. Many San Franciscans simply don't like the looks of the towering concrete highways.

To them, the Embarcadero Freeway is the height of insult, carrying traffic above the Embarcadero — and right in front of the old Ferry Building, one of the best known of San Francisco landmarks.

One newspaper, The Chronicle, is conducting a campaign to tear down the freeway. An engineer has suggested that it could be blown up for "only" $800,000 a mile.

The problem is to build freeways that do not offend the eye any more than necessary. Surveys are under way to find a practical way of carrying out the task.

Despite all this, San Francisco is still a romantic cosmopolitan city.

Still Has Hills

It still has its hills — its Russian Hill apartments, its Telegraph Hill view. It's still a melange of races and nationalities; Chinatown and North Beach are as exotic as ever.

The cable cars rattle up and down the hillsides—but there are only 26 of them, not 600 as at the turn of the century.

Fishermen hawk their wares at Fishermen's Wharf; the city's famous restaurants and night clubs are flourishing.

But life is tamer nowadays than it used to be. The police have cracked down on vice in recent years. The old International Settlement — once known as the last remnant of the lusty Barbary Coast—is now a quiet block of wholesale drapery and furniture houses.

The city still has its art galleries, its opera season, its symphony — and some of the finest theaters west of Broadway.

There's a bright note, too, among all the changes — San Francisco has gone big league. Its residents are tremendously proud of at least one sign of progress: their Giants.

They've even built brand new Candlestick Park Stadium for the team.

But, while they were constructing a new park, they proved they were real San Franciscans by publicly mourning the demise of the old one, Seal Stadium.

'Pied-Piper' Finds Some Like Rats

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — The Pied Piper of Binga is keeping a sharp eye on Lake Kariba, hoping for another plague of rats.

But Dr. James Mundie would be satisfied if they never came back.

Mundie, a government medical officer at Binga on the shores of Lake Kariba, wrote in a privately-circulated Ministry of Health newsletter not long ago that the rats were eating him out of home, hospital and typewriter keys.

"To date, they have eaten the fly-sheet of my tent, two felts, three pairs of socks, the inside of my gun-case, some of my wife's clothing and the shift-key of this typewriter," Mundie wrote.

The rats, it seems, were being driven out of the valley by the rising waters of the lake, backed up by the huge Kariba Dam, Africa's biggest.

Salvation came in the form of the African pied piper, whom Mundie did not name.

This laborer, he said, discovered that rats were a real delicacy to the lobal Batonka tribesmen. So the Batonka women put down their two-foot-long calabash pipes and went hunting rats for the men's suppers.

The enterprising pied piper organized rat catching on a commercial scale, netting an average of 60 a day from traps along the lake shore. Then he sold them to the villagers for a penny each.

Within days, he had cleaned up the plague of rats.

But, Mundie noted ominously, the waters of the lake will start rising again when the rains come. And when the waters rise, so do the rats.

There is no "off-season" in newspaper reading. An analysis of daily newspaper circulation over a three year period shows no month varied more than 4% from the peak month. The newspaper habit is constant throughout the year.

Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

Had West employed a simple bit of precaution in defending today's doubled contract, his side would have saved a substantial number of points.

Although North's continuation to five hearts was totally unjustified, there can be little doubt as to the soundness of West's double of the final contract. He held two aces, and partner had bid freely. East, therefore, should be able to obtain the lead at least once to give West a ruff, which would beat the hand two tricks.

West led the ten of spades which rode around to declarer's queen, and he returned a trump. With the intent of a greyhound in pursuit of the rabbit, West hopped up with the ace, then underled the ace of diamonds.

South gratefully won the trick with his bare king, ruffed out his losing clubs and drew trumps. He had only to concede a trick in spades to make five hearts doubled.

If West hadn't been in such a blind hurry, he could have defended with complete assurance. It was the height of futility to hope for two spade ruffs. To start with, East couldn't be expected to have two quick entries, for the ace of clubs should be assigned to South to justify his bidding. West should, therefore, have been satisfied with only one ruff, and if East had the king of diamonds, there was no hurry.

East, knowing that partner has led a singleton, will surely signal as to the method of reaching his hand, and West should permit him to speak his little piece. If he ducks the first heart lead, East will surely show out on the second round, and a message will come through.

East will make the eloquent discard of the diamond four, denying the possession of the king of diamonds. It wouldn't matter now if West cashed the ace of diamonds, or shifted to a club. The defense would sooner or later get their three natural tricks — a trump, a diamond, and a spade.

Grand Jury Renews Fund Shortage Probe

SALISBURY (AP)—The Wicomico County Grand Jury reconvened in special session Monday and heard a new charge from Circuit Judge Rex A. Taylor on its investigation of a money shortage in the county liquor store accounts.

Taylor spent much of the session pointing out the duties of the liquor board and emphasized that these duties would be violated by the board's withholding of any information about the shortage.

The investigation was begun last summer after the newly elected county commissioners reportedly discovered shortages totaling about $32,000 in the accounts of the outgoing board. The shortage was said to have developed over a seven-year period.

Long's Fate To Be Decided December 5

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —The saga of Earl K. Long, only governor in history to wield his power from behind the bars of a mental hospital, reaches a climax on Dec. 5.

On that day, the voters of Louisiana will decide what to do with Ol' Uncle Earl—whether to place their confidence in him again or banish him to his pea patch.

He is one of five candidates running for lieutenant governor. Many political observers don't think he will make it.

Long wanted to be governor again but the law prohibits a governor from succeeding himself. He settled for the No. 2 spot, and picked an odd buddy, former governor James Noe, as his candidate for No. 1.

10 Seek Governorship

There are nine others seeking the governorship, so if Long wins there is a good chance he will serve with a political enemy above him. If this happens, Louisiana can expect another political circus.

Noe is not a front-running candidate. Although he was a bosom buddy of Huey Long, Earl's brother who was assassinated nearly 25 years ago, he has dropped from the public eye in recent years.

It is unlikely that both Long and Noe will win, according to the experts. They see more of a chance that Long will win by himself.

The governor in that case would probably be afraid to leave the state, with Long ready to take over as acting governor in his absence. And Long would wield great power as president of the state senate.

"Look At Me"

For the past few months Long has been vigorously stumping the state, asking people to "look me in the eye and see for yourself if I'm nuts."

"If I'm nuts now I've been nuts all my life," he rasps.

He has made a special pitch toward women voters, but any success there might be cancelled out by the fact that he is divorcing his wife Blanche and by his widely reported capers with a red-haired stripper named Blaze Starr.

Meanwhile, segregationist candidates have made hay over the fact that Long caters toward the Negro population and draws a large vote from that quarter.

Another reason given by the experts in predicting defeat for Long is his position on the ticket. When his supporters don't find him at the top of the ticket, according to these experts, many them may become confused, vote for some gubernatorial candidate other than Noe and then cast their ballot for that man's running mate instead of Ol' Earl.

Long is 64 and his health isn't good, even though it is better than it was a few months ago. He has heart trouble that first showed up when he suffered a seizure while chasing a hog up a hill on his farm in 1950. However, he has shown amazing stamina.

Hit-And-Run Victim Is Found

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) — A Mt. Pleasant man was found dead on U.S. 340 near here Sunday night and police said he apparently was a victim of a hit-and-run automobile accident.

Identified as John Benjamin Price, 49, he was found on the highway by a passing motorist. Police said he had suffered multiple fractures and he had been dead for an hour.

Educator Dies Of Heart Attack

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Kanawha County educator W. C. (Doc) Noyes of nearby Dunbar died in a hospital here Monday a few hours after suffering a heart attack at his home. He was 52.

Principal at Dunbar Junior High School, Noyes was well-known in southern West Virginia as an official in scholastic athletic contests. He was a graduate of Marshall College.

San Francisco Going Modern — Painfully

By JOHN BARNETT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city of San Francisco is going modern — and nothing could be more painful to this tradition-loving metropolis by the Golden Gate.

Freeways, slum clearance, shiny new multi-million-dollar buildings are changing the landscape that San Franciscans love.

An expressway throws a shadow over the waterfront, or Embarcadero as it is called, which will be completely revamped within a few years.

Neighborhoods that date back to, and in some cases prior to, the 1906 earthquake and fire are getting a completely brand new look.

The bus has all but replaced the cable car, and the trans-bay ferry is only a memory.

But San Francisco is a culture-conscious city and a sentimental one. It's willing to accept new ideas—but not at the expense of old ones.

Uphill Fight

That's why each step toward modernization has been a struggle as uphill as any of the city's steepest streets. The fight for—and against—freeways is an example.

San Francisco, like nearly all of California, is strangling on automobile traffic. One and a third million motor trips are started or ended in the city every day.

Hence, when the state legislature developed a master highway and expressway plan for the state this year, San Francisco got a bear-sized share of freeway allocations.

But its board of supervisors astounded the legislators by rejecting part of the state funds, completely erasing six proposed freeway routes through the city.

The city has already received 13½ miles of freeways, either built or planned, worth 127 million dollars. Under the legislature's plan, another 26½ miles are to be constructed—but won't be until a satisfactory program is developed.

Problem Of Esthetics

The problem is one of esthetics. Many San Franciscans simply don't like the looks of the towering concrete highways.

To them, the Embarcadero Freeway is the height of insult, carrying traffic above the Embarcadero — and right in front of the old Ferry Building, one of the best known of San Francisco landmarks.

One newspaper, The Chronicle, is conducting a campaign to tear down the freeway. An engineer has suggested that it could be blown up for "only" $800,000 a mile.

The problem is to build freeways that do not offend the eye any more than necessary. Surveys are under way to find a practical way of carrying out the task.

Despite all this, San Francisco is still a romantic cosmopolitan city.

Still Has Hills

It still has its hills — its Russian Hill apartments, its Telegraph Hill view. It's still a melange of races and nationalities; Chinatown and North Beach are as exotic as ever.

The cable cars rattle up and down the hillsides—but there are only 26 of them, not 600 as at the turn of the century.

Fishermen hawk their wares at Fishermen's Wharf; the city's famous restaurants and night clubs are flourishing.

But life is tamer nowadays than it used to be. The police have cracked down on vice in recent years. The old International Settlement — once known as the last remnant of the lusty Barbary Coast—is now a quiet block of wholesale drapery and furniture houses.

The city still has its art galleries, its opera season, its symphony — and some of the finest theaters west of Broadway.

There's a bright note, too, among all the changes — San Francisco has gone big league. Its residents are tremendously proud of at least one sign of progress: their Giants.

They've even built brand new Candlestick Park Stadium for the team.

But, while they were constructing a new park, they proved they were real San Franciscans by publicly mourning the demise of the old one, Seal Stadium.

'Pied-Piper' Finds Some Like Rats

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — The Pied Piper of Binga is keeping a sharp eye on Lake Kariba, hoping for another plague of rats.

But Dr. James Mundie would be satisfied if they never came back.

Mundie, a government medical officer at Binga on the shores of Lake Kariba, wrote in a privately-circulated Ministry of Health newsletter not long ago that the rats were eating him out of home, hospital and typewriter keys.

"To date, they have eaten the fly-sheet of my tent, two felts, three pairs of socks, the inside of my gun-case, some of my wife's clothing and the shift-key of this typewriter," Mundie wrote.

The rats, it seems, were being driven out of the valley by the rising waters of the lake, backed up by the huge Kariba Dam, Africa's biggest.

Salvation came in the form of the African pied piper, whom Mundie did not name.

This laborer, he said, discovered that rats were a real delicacy to the lobal Batonka tribesmen. So the Batonka women put down their two-foot-long calabash pipes and went hunting rats for the men's suppers.

The enterprising pied piper organized rat catching on a commercial scale, netting an average of 60 a day from traps along the lake shore. Then he sold them to the villagers for a penny each.

Within days, he had cleaned up the plague of rats.

But, Mundie noted ominously, the waters of the lake will start rising again when the rains come. And when the waters rise, so do the rats.

There is no "off-season" in newspaper reading. An analysis of daily newspaper circulation over a three year period shows no month varied more than 4% from the peak month. The newspaper habit is constant throughout the year.

Market Declines Sharply On Heavy Profit-Taking

NEW YORK (UPI) —Profit-taking pulled the stock market down in late trading although a number of specials managed to get in some good gains before the close.

The decline—one of the widest in weeks—wiped more than 3-billion dollars from market values.

Favorable steel and dividend news touched off the profit-taking as traders seized upon these as a good time to unload. Some also sold stock for tax losses.

Steel shares were hard hit despite the fact that steel production was getting into high gear much faster than even the most optimistic experts had anticipated.

National Steel lost 4. Youngstown Sheet 3½. U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin 2c, and Bethlehem 1¾.

Trading expanded to 3,710,000 shares from 3,050,000 shares on Friday. The number of new issues traded jumped to 1,228 from 1,198 previously, and of these 741 declined, 293 advanced and 192 held unchanged. New lows outnumbered new highs 76 to 22.

Electric & Musical topped the most active list with 219,800 shares.

Motorola stood out in its section with a gain of 6¾ and Texas Instruments with a gain of 3½. Philco and General Time advanced more than a point each.

In the motors, American dropped 2¼, Studebaker-Packard 1⅜. Ford, GM and Chrysler trading ex-dividend were all down fractions.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Heavy selling, much of it liquidation and hedging, dropped most grain prices to heavy levels Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the closing bell, wheat was off ⅝ to ⅞; corn off ¼ to ½; oats off ⅞ to 1⅝; rye off 1¼ to 1⅞; and soybeans off 1½ to 1¾.

March and May wheat contracts pushed to new highs for the season early Monday before profit-taking and hedge selling depressed the market. Longs led the selling. There were buying orders below the market, but demand was slow.

In corn, there was heavy buying of May and selling of July at 1½ cents difference. The market was easier. Hedging developed after an opening price advance supported by severe weather.

Oats were down more than a cent on liquidation and stop loss selling. The morning's biggest setback amounted to 1¾ cents a bushel.

Rye prices were also heavy on profit-taking and stop loss selling.

Soybenas opened strong, but prices fell off sharply at mid-session. The opening advance stemmed mainly from unfavorable weather reports. Longs and local traders were the chief sellers. Hedge selling was fairly light.

The export quarter was quiet, with a sale of 94,000 bushels of soybeans to Japan the only trade reported.

Outside markets were mostly lower.

Market Declines Sharply On Heavy Profit-Taking

NEW YORK (UPI) —Profit-taking pulled the stock market down in late trading although a number of specials managed to get in some good gains before the close.

The decline—one of the widest in weeks—wiped more than 3-billion dollars from market values.

Favorable steel and dividend news touched off the profit-taking as traders seized upon these as a good time to unload. Some also sold stock for tax losses.

Steel shares were hard hit despite the fact that steel production was getting into high gear much faster than even the most optimistic experts had anticipated.

National Steel lost 4. Youngstown Sheet 3½. U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin 2c, and Bethlehem 1¾.

Trading expanded to 3,710,000 shares from 3,050,000 shares on Friday. The number of new issues traded jumped to 1,228 from 1,198 previously, and of these 741 declined, 293 advanced and 192 held unchanged. New lows outnumbered new highs 76 to 22.

Electric & Musical topped the most active list with 219,800 shares.

Motorola stood out in its section with a gain of 6¾ and Texas Instruments with a gain of 3½. Philco and General Time advanced more than a point each.

In the motors, American dropped 2¼. Studebaker-Packard 1⅜. Ford, GM and Chrysler trading ex-dividend were all down fractions.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Heavy selling, much of it liquidation and hedging, dropped most grain prices to heavy levels Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the closing bell, wheat was off ⅝ to ⅞; corn off ¼ to ½; oats off ⅞ to 1⅛; rye off 1¼ to 1⅞; and soybeans off 1½ to 1¾.

March and May wheat contracts pushed to new highs for the season early Monday before profit-taking and hedge selling depressed the market. Longs led the selling. There were buying orders below the market, but demand was slow.

In corn, there was heavy buying of May and selling of July at 1½ cents difference. The market was easier. Hedging developed after an opening price advance supported by severe weather.

Oats were down more than a cent on liquidation and stop loss selling. The morning's biggest setback amounted to 1¾ cents a bushel.

Rye prices were also heavy on profit-taking and stop loss selling.

Soybenas opened strong, but prices fell off sharply at mid-session. The opening advance stemmed mainly from unfavorable weather reports. Longs and local traders were the chief sellers. Hedge selling was fairly light.

The export quarter was quiet, with a sale of 94,000 bushels of soybeans to Japan the only trade reported.

Outside markets were mostly lower.

City To Study 5-Year Street Paving Plan

Work Is Estimated To Cost $1,500,000

A proposal for a five-year street paving plan will get top priority Friday night when the Mayor and Council sits down for its weekly discussion session.

The plan was prepared by City Engineer C. R. Nuzum at the request of Street Commissioner John J. Long, who arranged yesterday to have copies supplied to city officials in preparation for the meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the mayor's office at City Hall.

Mr. Nuzum said the program, if endorsed by the Mayor and Council and adopted by citizens of Cumberland, would allow eight miles of existing graded streets to be curbed and paved within the next five years.

City Share 32%

Total cost of the program extending from 1960 through 1965 has been estimated at $1,500,000 with the city sharing $500,000 of the cost and property owners $1,000,000.

In estimating costs, the City Engineer estimated the city's share of the work at 32 per cent.

Included in the city's share is 25 per cent of the construction costs formerly allotted to abutting property owners, plus the full costs of intersections and alley entrances, for which the city has always paid. A figure of seven per cent was used as a fair average of intersection costs.

As laid out, the plan calls for the improvement of eight streets the first year, seven the second year, 10 during the third, seven in the fourth and eight in the final year.

To provide flexibility, the program calls for later listing of projects estimated to cost the city $50,000 during the fourth year and about $25,000 the final year.

Mr. Nuzum pointed out that Cumberland also needs more and bigger sewers, and better water service in some areas.

The Mayor and Council has given considerable thought to the last suggestion and believes that when future street improvements are made they will be built as a package improvement.

Favor Package Deal

The idea is that when a street is torn up for modernization, all utility lines, including water, gas and sewer, would be inspected and, if necessary, replaced to minimize future tearing up of streets for repairs.

Commissioner Long has asked that all three city engineers be present at the first part of Friday's meeting so that all work may be coordinated.

A city spokesman said the Mayor and Council is also considering plans to have all power lines placed underground.

Auxiliary Police To Get New Portable Light Unit

The Cumberland Auxiliary Police, who recently added an all steel two-wheel boat trailer to their rescue equipment, will acquire a portable light plant in the near future.

Sgt. John Newhouse of the Cumberland Police Department, who is advisor to the unit, said the Lions Club yesterday presented a set of tires to the organization for use on the sedan delivery vehicle used in hauling emergency gear for rescue work.

The local service club also has on order a portable light plant which will be used in conjunction with the dredging of the Potomac River or area creeks at night or in other emergencies after dark.

Sgt. Newhouse said that about two weeks ago the unit received a new two-wheel trailer which will be used to transport the two "piggy-back aluminum boats which are kept stored for immediate use at Canada Hose House on North Mechanic Street.

The trailer and boats are hauled by a jeep in the event of emergencies. The new trailer replaces one which was too heavy and cumbersome for practical use.

Sgt. Newhouse said the auxiliary unit attempts to have a roster of 50 uniform members at all times and they are called upon on various occasions to assist city police.

Large earth-moving machinery of the George F. Hazelwood Company is attracting considerable attention at Valley High School in Lonaconing, where the athletic field is being enlarged.

The Allegany County Board of Education awarded the contract to the Hazelwood firm June 24 on a low bid of $12,490. It had been intended that work should start about August. However, there was considerable delay in getting some of the five houses vacated before they could be moved to make room for the field expansion.

One house was moved to another location and the other four were torn down.

Earth-movers, dozers and pans have been working daily since the beginning of last week removing part of the hillside and using that dirt to expand the field. The contract includes excavation, drainage, fencing, topsoil and seeding.

City plans for widening Franklin Street will be delayed while steps are taken to secure a deed to one of two properties needed.

The Mayor and Council last week authorized Mayor J. Edwin Keech and City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery to secure leases and complete negotiations for the properties, paying not more than $5,000 for one and not over $8,000 for the second property.

But city officials said that when they went to get one of the options, it was learned that one of the owners was in the Allegany County Home and was not, in the opinion of County Physician, capable of signing a valid deed.

The City assumes, it was explained, that his family is taking necessary steps to complete the sale of the property.

Today Is Last For Political Switching Here

Dissatisfied Democrats and reluctant Republicans have a final chance to switch political parties today.

State law prohibits a change of political affiliation within six months of a state primary election. John R. Kelly, Democrat registrar, and Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar, will be on duty at the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 4 p. m. today.

This is the last opportunity because the May 17 primary election is six months hence.

Those who will have lived in Allegany County one year or will reach the age of 21 on or before November 8, 1960, are eligible to register any time up to April 16, 1960, in order to vote in the May 17 primary and November 8 general election next year.

Records Filed In Accident Appeals Here

Transcripts of records of two Workmen's Compensation Commission appeals were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The first case involved Harry D. Judy, who was a 53-year-old resident of Horseshoe Run, W. Va., at the time he was employed as a laborer for the Consolidated Engineering Company, Inc., on or about March 8, 1956, in the construction of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant at North Branch. The insurer in the case was Maryland Casualty Company.

Judy was digging a footer when the ground around him caved in, he said. He sustained a fracture of the right clavical, fracture of three ribs and fracture of pelvic bones. In an opinion dated last December 29, Commissioner Paul M. Fletcher ruled that Judy's temporary total disability ended May 20, 1956. He also decided that Judy's permanent partial disability was 35 per cent of the industrial use of his body, which entitled him to $25 a week beginning May 21, 1956, or a total of $4,375.

Judy, through Attorney Edward J. Ryan, appealed. Edward S. Ziegler was the attorney for the employer and insurer.

In the second case, Danford W. Thorp, who was 23 and lived at 1214 Lafayette Avenue, contended that he injured his back March 2, 1957, when he tripped over tree branches while carrying concrete blocks.

His employer was Mauk Construction Company and the firm carried no workmen's compensation. In an opinion dated November 29, 1957, R. Duncan Clark, then a commissioner of the old State Industrial Accident Commission, ruled that Thorp had temporary total disability from March 3 until June 15, 1957, and was entitled to $35 a week for that period. The employer appealed.

Harry I. Stegmaier was listed as attorney for Thorp and James Alfred Avirett for the employer.

Kingwood Man Gets 1-5 Years For Assault

George Thomas, 39, Pleads Guilty

A 39-year-old Kingwood, W. Va., man yesterday was sentenced in Preston County Circuit Court to one to five years in the West Virginia Penitentiary on a charge of felonious assault with a firearm in the wounding of a woman and her grandson last August.

George Thomas entered a plea of guilty when he appeared before Judge Melvin C. Snyder who recommended the defendant serve at least two years in the penal institution at Moundsville.

Wounded were Mrs. Helen Shrout and her grandson, Tony Trent Shrout, less than a year old. Thomas allegedly fired the high-powered rifle at Betty Shrout, daughter of Mrs. Shrout, and the fragments wounded the older woman and her grandchild.

Prosecuting Attorney James T. Dailey Jr. said the incident apparently stemmed from an argument between Thomas and Miss Shrout about the baby. He said an agreement had been reached between them for support of the child.

The shooting occurred at the home of Alva Shrout, father of Betty Shrout. Thomas resides with his wife and three children on the other side of a wooded area near the Shrout home.

During the trial yesterday, Thomas was represented by Robert C. Halbritter and Neil A. Reed, Kingwood attorneys.

Discussions will provide material for books and pamphlets for the NEA across the nation, according to Mr. Pence who said films will also be made depicting the need for physical fitness in schools.

Recommendations will be made by representatives of all the states. What programs have been carried out and additional phases of fitness which should be included in the overall program will also be aired.

City To Study 5-Year Street Paving Plan

Work Is Estimated To Cost $1,500,000

A proposal for a five-year street paving plan will get top priority Friday night when the Mayor and Council sits down for its weekly discussion session.

The plan was prepared by City Engineer C. R. Nuzum at the request of Street Commissioner John J. Long, who arranged yesterday to have copies supplied to city officials in preparation for the meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the mayor's office at City Hall.

Mr. Nuzum said the program, if endorsed by the Mayor and Council and adopted by citizens of Cumberland, would allow eight miles of existing graded streets to be curbed and paved within the next five years.

City Share 32%

Total cost of the program extending from 1960 through 1965 has been estimated at $1,500,000 with the city sharing $500,000 of the cost and property owners $1,000,000.

In estimating costs, the City Engineer estimated the city's share of the work at 32 per cent.

Included in the city's share is 25 per cent of the construction costs formerly allotted to abutting property owners, plus the full costs of intersections and alley entrances, for which the city has always paid. A figure of seven per cent was used as a fair average of intersection costs.

As laid out, the plan calls for the improvement of eight streets the first year, seven the second year, 10 during the third, seven in the fourth and eight in the final year.

To provide flexibility, the program calls for later listing of projects estimated to cost the city $50,000 during the fourth year and about $25,000 the final year.

Mr. Nuzum pointed out that Cumberland also needs more and bigger sewers, and better water service in some areas.

The Mayor and Council has given considerable thought to the last suggestion and believes that when future street improvements are made they will be built as a package improvement.

Favor Package Deal

The idea is that when a street is torn up for modernization, all utility lines, including water, gas and sewer, would be inspected and, if necessary, replaced to minimize future tearing up of streets for repairs.

Commissioner Long has asked that all three city engineers be present at the first part of Friday's meeting so that all work may be coordinated.

A city spokesman said the Mayor and Council is also considering plans to have all power lines placed underground.

The proposal is slated for discussion—not for immediate action but as part of the city's long-range planning.

Dissatisfied Democrats and reluctant Republicans have a final chance to switch political parties today.

State law prohibits a change of political affiliation within six months of a state primary election. John R. Kelly, Democrat registrar, and Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar, will be on duty at the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 4 p. m. today.

This is the last opportunity because the May 17 primary election is six months hence.

Those who will have lived in Allegany County one year or will reach the age of 21 on or before November 8, 1960, are eligible to register any time up to April 16, 1960, in order to vote in the May 17 primary and November 8 general election next year.

Records Filed In Accident Appeals Here

Transcripts of records of two Workmen's Compensation Commission appeals were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The first case involved Harry D. Judy, who was a 53-year-old resident of Horseshoe Run, W. Va., at the time he was employed as a laborer for the Consolidated Engineering Company, Inc., on or about March 8, 1956, in the construction of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant at North Branch. The insurer in the case was Maryland Casualty Company.

Judy was digging a footer when the ground around him caved in, he said. He sustained a fracture of the right clavical, fracture of three ribs and fracture of pelvic bones. In an opinion dated last December 29, Commissioner Paul M. Fletcher ruled that Judy's temporary total disability ended May 20, 1956. He also decided that Judy's permanent partial disability was 35 per cent of the industrial use of his body, which entitled him to $25 a week beginning May 21, 1956, or a total of $4,375.

Judy, through Attorney Edward J. Ryan, appealed. Edward S. Ziegler was the attorney for the employer and insurer.

In the second case, Danford W. Thorp, who was 23 and lived at 1214 Lafayette Avenue, contended that he injured his back March 2, 1957, when he tripped over tree branches while carrying concrete blocks.

His employer was Mauk Construction Company and the firm carried no workmen's compensation. In an opinion dated November 29, 1957, R. Duncan Clark, then a commissioner of the old State Industrial Accident Commission, ruled that Thorp had temporary total disability from March 3 until June 15, 1957, and was entitled to $35 a week for that period. The employer appealed.

Harry I. Stegmaier was listed as attorney for Thorp and James Alfred Avirett for the employer.

Fluoridation Termed Financially Feasible For Area Towns

The Allegany County Health Department, in its current newsletter, expressed gratification over the efforts of many groups and individuals to reactivate the fluoridation issue here.

"We must not lost sight . . . of the fact that Frostburg and Westernport are of the size where fluoridation of the town water supplies would also be financially feasible," it added.

Kingwood Man Gets 1-5 Years For Assault

George Thomas, 39, Pleads Guilty

A 39-year-old Kingwood, W. Va., man yesterday was sentenced in Preston County Circuit Court to one to five years in the West Virginia Penitentiary on a charge of felonious assault with a firearm in the wounding of a woman and her grandson last August.

George Thomas entered a plea of guilty when he appeared before Judge Melvin C. Snyder who recommended the defendant serve at least two years in the penal institution at Moundsville.

Wounded were Mrs. Helen Shrout and her grandson, Tony Trent Shrout, less than a year old. Thomas allegedly fired the high-powered rifle at Betty Shrout, daughter of Mrs. Shrout, and the fragments wounded the older woman and her grandchild.

Prosecuting Attorney James T. Dailey Jr. said the incident apparently stemmed from an argument between Thomas and Miss Shrout about the baby. He said an agreement had been reached between them for support of the child.

The shooting occurred at the home of Alva Shrout, father of Betty Shrout. Thomas resides with his wife and three children on the other side of a wooded area near the Shrout home.

During the trial yesterday, Thomas was represented by Robert C. Halbritter and Neil A. Reed, Kingwood attorneys.

Widening Project May Be Delayed

City plans for widening Franklin Street will be delayed while steps are taken to secure a deed to one of two properties needed.

The Mayor and Council last week authorized Mayor J. Edwin Keech and City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery to secure leases and complete negotiations for the properties, paying not more than $5,000 for one and not over $8,000 for the second property.

But city officials said that when they went to get one of the options, it was learned that one of the owners was in the Allegany County Home and was not, in the opinion of County Physician, capable of signing a valid deed.

The City assumes, it was explained, that his family is taking necessary steps to complete the sale of the property.
